Ohio May Study Curb On Comic Books

Lausche Says Growing Craze Is 'Astounding'

Believes Assembly, With Other States, Will Take Action

Following is another in a series of articles being published by The Herald in an effort to focus public attention on the growing danger represented by a certain type of "comic books".

The serious problem has been recognized for a long time on a national scale, and the effort here is to emphasize that the "comic book craze" is also deeply rooted in the local area. In the preceding article The Herald quoted from dialogue and outlined story plots to illustrate how far the original, harmless idea of the "comic books" has been pushed aside.

In today's article, Ohio's governor said he believes the menace will continue to grow until legislative action is taken. "Parents," he said, "are worried."

(Third of a Series)

Asked to comment on the "comic book" problem as it is found in Circleville and other communities throughout the nation, Governor Frank J. Lausche warned that the matter needs the urgent attention of the state's entire population.

The statement by the state's chief executive to The Herald follows:

"It is astounding to note that over 75 percent of our children between the ages of four and nineteen, are regular readers of comic magazines. More than 400 different types of such comic magazines are on sale today. They constitute more than a third of all the newsstand reading matter in this country.

"Naturally and inevitably, the influence that this part of the reading diet has on our children has become an important consideration for parents, educators, librarians, sociologists, psychiatrists and in fact the entire population.

"I, OF COURSE, understand that there are many comic books portraying the stories of real people, history current events and other items, in a constructive educational way.

"On the other hand, it is a recognized fact that in the zeal to sell comic books, greater liberties are being taken by their publishers, by going to the fringe and frequently actually into the field of subjects which have a demoralizing influence.

Another Wheat Ballot Expected

WASHINGTON (AP)—A new forecast on the size of this year's wheat crop prepared for issuance by the Agriculture Department today will start wheels turning for a grower referendum on extending wheat production controls for another year.

Advance signs were that the crop estimate would indicate that the wheat crop will be large enough to require Secretary of Agriculture Benson to invoke rigid marketing quotas on the 1955 crop. He must announce quotas by July 1 and submit them to a grower. Voting is required to make the quotas operative. Last year farmers voted 87 per cent in favor of quotas on this year's crop.

French Abandon Another Outpost

Red Rebels Increasing Pressure In Hanoi Area, Tighten Circle

HANOI, Indochina (AP)—The French high command announced today the abandonment of another outpost in the Red River delta, the village of Haiyen in the Hungyen sector 30 miles southeast of Hanoi.

The garrison of about 160 men, a command spokesman said, was withdrawn after it had beaten off two attacks by numerically superior Vietminh forces who had infiltrated the delta.

The evacuation was part of a high command campaign to draw in isolated units and concentrate on building up key defenses in anticipation of an eventual offensive by five or more of the Communist led rebel divisions rimming the delta.

Presumably the village garrison withdrew four miles westward to Hungyen, a timber center of 4,000 near the north bank of the Red River.

MEANWHILE, in Geneva, the

France Faces New Crisis In Laniel Cabinet

PARIS (AP)—The specter of a protracted cabinet crisis threatened France and the Geneva conference today. Premier Joseph Laniel for the third time in five weeks demanded a vote of confidence from the angry National Assembly.

The deputies will vote Saturday. Observers generally were pessimistic about Laniel's chances. The premier survived his last confidence vote May 13 by the thin margin of two votes and some of his support seems to have deserted him since then.

Enough of the lawmakers may reconsider during the interim, however, to enable the government to squeeze through. Few of the deputies want to assume responsibility for jeopardizing the Geneva conference and there is no certainty any new government could be formed quickly.

The premier's confidence vote demand came early today, at the end of an all-night session of the Assembly. It followed the deputies' refusal, 324-269, to consider an innocuous government-backed resolution on the Indochina crisis.

Many speakers accused the Cabinet and Foreign Minister Georges Bidault, in particular, of not working hard enough for peace.

The crucial ballot Saturday will be on the government's refusal to give priority to three other resolutions sharply critical of its Indochina policies. But the Assembly's decision may well turn also on the troublesome question of the proposed European Defense Community Treaty.

GE Winner, 3-1 Over Jackson

Ron Bennington's fly to right in the fifth, with two on and two out, knocked the lid off the County Baseball League campaign Wednesday night at Ted Lewis Park, giving General Electric a 3-to-1 victory over Jackson Township.

The game for the most part was a pitching battle between Smith for Jackson and McConnell for GE. The Wilson club and Pickaway are all geared to swing into action Thursday twilight. Fans are reminded the game starts at 5:30. (Story of Wednesday's game on the sports pages)

Greenfield Native Gets Plastics Job

AKRON (AP)—Seiberling Rubber Co. today announced appointment of Robert S. Price as manager of its plastics division.

Seiberling is building a new plastics plant in Newcomerstown. A Greenfield native, Price formerly was general manager of the B. F. Goodrich Co. plastic division in Marietta.

Indochina peace talks appeared to have entered a new phase in which both the Western Powers and the Communists are trying to blame each other for the anticipated failure of the conference.

Neither side declared publicly that further negotiations are useless. But the stiffer attitude of the major delegations made clear they hold little hope of agreeing on a cease-fire for the Far Eastern battleground.

The nine-party parley scheduled another meeting today.

There was no progress at all yesterday on the Indochina problem. A British spokesman said "progress has not been slow, it has been nil."

Delegates kept a close watch on the political crisis in France, where Premier Joseph Laniel's tottering government faces another parliamentary vote of confidence Saturday. The question here was what effect the fall of Laniel's Cabinet—if it comes—would have on the Geneva conference.

Red China's Premier - Foreign Minister Chou En-lai apparently had the French crisis in mind yesterday when he declared, "The war faction in France is still in feverish pursuit of American intervention and enlarged aid in Indochina and has adopted a dilatory policy in relation to the Geneva conference."

However, most of Chou's charges, like those of Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov the previous day, were aimed at the United States. The Chinese leader declared U. S. policy was "designed to extend the war in Indochina and to prevent the Geneva conference from reaching agreement."

House Ready To Extend Tariff Setup

WASHINGTON (AP)—House leaders set a fast course today for a bill to extend for another year President Eisenhower's power to lower U. S. tariffs in agreement with other nations which lower theirs.

Known as the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act, the law which the House bill would keep in effect is presently scheduled to expire at midnight Saturday.

House leaders want to get the extension bill to the Senate in time for action there next week if possible. While that would be after the deadline, a temporary lapse of the 20-year-old law would not affect reciprocal trade agreements already on the books.

Eisenhower originally had requested a three-year extension of the controversial program in line with recommendations of a special commission on foreign economic policy headed by Clarence B. Randall, president of Inland Steel. The President later backed away from the three-year request now and asked instead for the shorter extension in order, he said, to give the House Ways and Means Committee more time for a longer look at the over-all program, with action next year.

Speaker Martin (R-Mass) predicted that the House would overwhelmingly approve the one-year extension.

ASHLAND, Ky. (AP)—Law officers searched today for Emory Theodore Drummond, 20, of Warren, Ohio, who escaped yesterday from a work detail outside the federal institution here. He was sentenced for automobile theft.

3 Year Probation Given To Shockley

Donald Shockley, 22, of Columbus, was placed on three years probation Thursday after pleading guilty to accusations of second degree manslaughter and failure to yield the right of way.

Pickaway County Common Pleas Judge William D. Radcliff, in passing sentence, said he took into consideration the fact that no drinking was involved in the two-car collision which led to the charges. One man was killed and five other persons were injured.

Judge Radcliff also suspended Shockley's driving license for three years and ordered him to pay the court costs. Although the normal period of payment is 90 days, the judge took into consideration the fact that Shockley is still recovering from the effects of the crash.

The accident occurred May 7 at 11:30 a. m. at the intersection of Routes 22 and 104, four miles west of Circleville, during a steady rain. Earl C. Stauffer, 52-year-old Lancaster, Pa., industrialist, was killed. Shockley, his two passengers and Stauffer's wife and a baby sitter were all injured.

According to Deputy Sheriff Carl White, Shockley's car was traveling south on Route 104 on the way to West Virginia.

The Stauffer auto, White said, was going east on Route 22 on the way back to Pennsylvania from Louisville, Ky.

There were apparently no witnesses to the accident. However, one woman in a nearby house said she heard a very loud crash, looked out the window to see the two cars "up in the air."

GI Gets Dog Into Country, But Not His Wife And Son

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A National Guardsman, who sent his wife and son to stay with her mother in Europe while he went to serve in Korea, hasn't been able to get her readmitted to this country.

But he got his mongrel dog across the border OK. The wife is not an American citizen.

She's now stranded in Niagara Falls, Canada, says Charles Irvine, 31, who commands Battery C, 708th Antiaircraft Artillery Battalion of the National Guard.

After returning from Korea, he says, he wrote his wife Lori to come home. She had been with her mother, Mrs. Arthur Mullin, a

Mrs. Lucille Stauffer, wife of the dead man, had severe knee lacerations. Jane Geist, 19-year-old baby sitter for the Stauffer's eight month-old son Earl, had chest and back injuries. The infant, who had been in a crib in the back seat of the car, was not hurt.

Jury Unable To Decide On Ex-Cop's Case

IRONTON (AP)—A jury of nine men and three women last night failed to agree on a verdict in the manslaughter case against a former state highway patrolman, Robert Brickles, 29.

The jury was dismissed after reporting a "hopeless deadlock" in its eight-hour discussion of the case. The trial started Monday.

Brickles was accused of the hit-skip death last March 5 of Policeman Carl Green of Coal Grove.

Two women companions testified Brickles was driving when Green was hit. Brickles told the court he became sick and went to sleep in the front seat of the car opposite the driver's side. He said he didn't wake up until the party arrived in Ashland, Ky.

Both Ashland women, Mrs. Elizabeth Bradley, 23, and Mrs. Sarah Belevins, 25, testified they had been on a long beer-drinking party with Brickles before Green was killed.

Prosecutor Harold Spears did not indicate whether the state would seek a new trial.

Unofficial reports said the jury was 9-3 for acquittal.

Chances Dim For Dem Plan To Trim Taxes

Senate Finance Panel Goes Down Line For Ike's Revenue Changes

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate Finance Committee action giving President Eisenhower just about what he asked for in tax changes today dimmed the prospects of victory for a Democratic plan to tack on an income tax cut.

Finishing its work on the $75-page tax revision bill last night after six weeks of secret deliberations, the group accepted nearly all of the benefits for corporations and individuals sought by the administration. These would amount to about $1.4 billion in tax cuts in the first year.

Democrats on the committee did not even offer their proposal for a big reduction in personal income taxes by a boost in exemptions. It had become obvious the majority Republicans on the committee would reject such a move.

Their failure to win committee support threw cold water on any hopes for a general income tax reduction in the revision bill, for the Senate rarely upsets its finance committee.

Principal benefits in the House bill retained by the Senate committee, besides the one to aid stockholders, include:

ACCELERATED depreciation allowances for corporations and individuals, increased deductions for medical expenses, an increased exemption of retirement income, permission to farmers to deduct soil conservation expenses, an increase in charitable deductions, permission to fathers to keep the $600 exemption on a child under 19 or going to college even though the dependent earns more than $600 a year, and permission to single heads of families to use the income-splitting privilege granted married couples.

Changes made by the Senate committee in the bill included: elimination, at least temporarily, of a section cutting taxes of American companies on their foreign income; broadening a provision allowing working mothers to write off up to $600 of the cost of child care;

Sharp increases in percentage depletion allowances on 30 metals including lead, zinc and uranium; insertion of a new provision aimed at closing a loophole under which builders made windfall profits on government-financed apartment projects.

The bill also would extend for a

Perhaps Driving Aide Too Young

COPENHAGEN (AP)—Harald Nielsen, 40, went apartying last night and imbibed too much to be able to drive. He enlisted the aid of a passerby, gave him a quick driving lesson and asked him to be taken home.

The car crashed against a lamp post. Police found Nielsen uninjured near the top of a tree, where he had climbed after the accident. The substitute driver was seriously injured. He was a 4-year-old boy.

Ike Believes U. S. In Serious Danger

President Says French Forces Probably Could Use Some Help

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today that the free world may be battling communism 40 years from now.

The President said this country certainly is in a truly serious situation, although he declined to accept a suggestion that it was in greater danger than ever before in history.

The greatest danger, Eisenhower said, is the possibility that Americans will look only at single conflicts and isolated battles at various places in the world, whereas the danger is world-wide and may last for 40 years regardless of the outcome of individual clashes.

He added it is his belief that the country's national security program is the right one — but he could change his mind any minute. And he certainly would change his mind, he said with emphasis, if the evidence were brought to him that he was wrong.

Holding his weekly press conference the President also said the French Union forces in Indochina are in possibly better shape than before the fall of Dien Bien Phu, but undoubtedly could be much aided by outside military help.

However, the President told newsmen, he does not believe this country should start a war.

Instead, he declared, the United States should keep its military reserves highly mobile, ready to move to any point of danger, and to continue waging the attack on communism on a world-wide front with intellectual, economic and spiritual weapons as well as military ones.

What he personally fears more than anything in the free world's struggle against communism is the possibility of a failure to look the danger squarely in its broad face. Eisenhower said emphatically the United States cannot achieve its aims by military force alone.

Ike To Seek Public Backing

Nationwide Appeal For Program Slated

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower will make a fresh appeal for public support of his legislative program in a major television-radio address tonight. It is scheduled for 8 p. m. EST.

His immediate audience is a half-hour speech will be a group of self-styled "political amateurs," the National Citizens for Eisenhower Congressional Committee.

This group opens a three-day meeting tonight with a congressional reception to be addressed by Vice President Nixon. A hurriedly arranged dinner will follow with the chief executive speaking. Up until late yesterday the President had been listed only for some brief informal remarks.

The White House said ABC would carry the speech direct on TV and radio, NBC direct on radio and by delayed film on TV (9:30 p. m. EST) and Mutual on a radio rebroadcast (10:30 p. m. EST). Other coverage was subject to pending arrangements.

THE PRESIDENT'S decision to go on the air and his choice of forum were significant. He has a strong attachment for the volunteer group that worked for him in his 1952 presidential race and is now engaged in a drive to marshal Democratic and independent votes for Republican congressional candidates pledged to the Eisenhower program.

Also, the White House decision is in line with the President's June 2 news conference statements that enactment of his program is so important to the national welfare that he intends to give what he termed his exclusive attention. He has voiced concern with slow congressional action on the program.

Five senatorial candidates which Citizens Committee officials say have been promised the group's support were announced today as Senators Kuchel (Calif.), Cooper (Ky.), Saltonstall (Mass.), Ferguson (Mich.) and Cordon (Ore).

'Almost Perfect' Murderer To Die

BALTIMORE (AP)—George Edward Grammer, pugy New York office manager, goes to his death on the gallows here tonight for the "almost perfect" murder of his wife.

Grammer was convicted of bludgeoning his attractive, 33-year-old wife to death in August 1952 and sending her body hurtling downhill in an automobile so that it would appear she died in an accident.

Two county officers, who happened by almost at the instant of the wreck, found a pebble wedged under the accelerator of the auto. Mrs. Grammer's wounds didn't match the condition of the car.

Dayton Engineer Raps Warren Dam

WASHINGTON (AP)—A proposed dam north of Warren, Ohio, yesterday was criticized by a Dayton engineering consultant as "wholly unnecessary," too expensive and unfair to landowners who would be flooded out.

K. G. Breene of Dayton made the statements at a hearing on the $59 million Mahoning-Grand River floodway conducted by the Army Board of Engineers.

Breene represents the main opponent of the project, the Upper Ohio Valley Assn. of Pittsburgh. Breene claims one of the chief beneficiaries of the proposed dam, Youngstown, now has "reasonably adequate" flood control.

GI Gets Dog Into Country, But Not His Wife And Son

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A National Guardsman, who sent his wife and son to stay with her mother in Europe while he went to serve in Korea, hasn't been able to get her readmitted to this country.

But he got his mongrel dog across the border OK. The wife is not an American citizen.

She's now stranded in Niagara Falls, Canada, says Charles Irvine, 31, who commands Battery C, 708th Antiaircraft Artillery Battalion of the National Guard.

After returning from Korea, he says, he wrote his wife Lori to come home. She had been with her mother, Mrs. Arthur Mullin, a British subject, in Garmisch-Partenkirchen, Germany.

"Last month she and our son and our dog, arrived in Montreal," Irvine said. "I went up to bring them back And by golly, the immigration office said she couldn't come in on a visitor's visa."

"I didn't know what to think but they wanted papers about our marriage, papers about everything. I just gave up and came back home."

He said he was "getting damned mad."

"I guess it's just because of red tape but it's difficult to understand that kind of red tape. I have my dog but my wife and child are in Canada. How about that?"

Irvine met his wife while serving in Europe during World War II. He said after the war he returned to Europe and they were married in 1950 in South Sea, England.

"We got a visitor's visa for my wife and entered the U. S. with no trouble at all," he said.

He was shipped to Korea in 1951 after service in the reserve.

"I hardly know what to do," he said. "Here I was going to get in the shooting again. So I sent my wife and son to live with her mother."

There was no immediate comment from immigration officials on the difficulty.

Chances Dim For Dem Plan To Trim Taxes

Senate Finance Panel Goes Down Line For Ike's Revenue Changes

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate Finance Committee action giving President Eisenhower just about what he asked for in tax changes today dimmed the prospects of victory for a Democratic plan to tack on an income tax cut.

Finishing its work on the 875-page tax revision bill last night after six weeks of secret deliberations, the group accepted nearly all of the benefits for corporations and individuals sought by the administration. These would amount to about $1.4 billion in tax cuts in the first year.

Democrats on the committee did not even offer their proposal for a big reduction in personal income taxes by a boost in exemptions. It had become obvious the majority Republicans on the committee would reject such a move.

Their failure to win committee support threw cold water on any hopes for a general income tax reduction in the revision bill, for the Senate rarely upsets its finance committee.

Principal benefits in the House bill retained by the Senate committee, besides the one to aid stockholders, include:

ACCELERATED depreciation allowances for corporations and individuals, increased deductions for medical expenses, an increased exemption of retirement income, permission to farmers to deduct soil conservation expenses, an increase in charitable deductions, permission to fathers to keep the $600 exemption on a child under 19 or going to college even though the dependent earns more than $600 a year, and permission to single heads of families to use the income-splitting privilege granted married couples.

Changes made by the Senate committee in the bill included: elimination, at least temporarily, of a section cutting taxes of American companies on their foreign income; broadening a provision allowing working mothers to write off up to $600 of the cost of child care;

Sharp increases in percentage depletion allowances on 30 metals including lead, zinc and uranium; insertion of a new provision aimed at closing a loophole under which builders made windfall profits on government-financed apartment projects.

The bill also would extend for a

Perhaps Driving Aide Too Young

COPENHAGEN (AP)—Harald Nielsen, 40, went apartying last night and imbibed too much to be able to drive. He enlisted the aid of a passerby, gave him a quick driving lesson and asked him to be taken home.

The car crashed against a lamp post. Police found Nielsen uninjured near the top of a tree, where he had climbed after the accident. The substitute driver was seriously injured. He was a 4-year-old boy.

Ike Believes U. S. In Serious Danger

President Says French Forces Probably Could Use Some Help

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today that the free world may be battling communism 40 years from now.

The President said this country certainly is in a truly serious situation, although he declined to accept a suggestion that it was in greater danger than ever before in history.

The greatest danger, Eisenhower said, is the possibility that Americans will look only at single conflicts and isolated battles at various places in the world, whereas the danger is world-wide and may last for 40 years regardless of the outcome of individual clashes.

He added it is his belief that the country's national security program is the right one — but he could change his mind any minute. And he certainly would change his mind, he said with emphasis, if the evidence were brought to him that he was wrong.

Holding his weekly press conference the President also said the French Union forces in Indochina are in possibly better shape than before the fall of Dien Bien Phu, but undoubtedly could be much aided by outside military help.

However, the President told newsmen, he does not believe this country should start a war.

Instead, he declared, the United States should keep its military reserves highly mobile, ready to move to any point of danger, and to continue waging the attack on communism on a world-wide front with intellectual, economic and spiritual weapons as well as military ones.

What he personally fears more than anything in the free world's struggle against communism is the possibility of a failure to look the danger squarely in its broad face. Eisenhower said emphatically the United States cannot achieve its aims by military force alone.

HE SAID THAT in addition to military strength, there must be the psychological, political and intellectual basis for any intervention designed to help the free world in the battle against the forces of communism.

On other matters the President had this to say at his news conference:

TARIFFS—The fact he has now asked for a simple one-year extension of the Reciprocal Trade Act, instead of insisting on his original request for a three-year extension with provision for a gradual 15 per cent cut in tariffs, does not mean he is abandoning the program.

SECRETS—Eisenhower said the loyalty and obedience to the provisions of the Constitution should be beyond question in the case of any man holding a commission as a reserve officer.

He was reminded by a newsmen that he said recently it was reprehensible for any Army officer or civilian to give out secret information without authorization.

POLITICS—The President said he still feels, on the broad ground of responsibility, that it is proper for him to endorse all Republican nominees for Congress as he did in the 1952 campaigns.

He added with a grin, however, that he imagines someone could pull something out of a hat that might be embarrassing to him.

'Almost Perfect' Murderer To Die

BALTIMORE (AP)—George Edward Grammer, pudgy New York office manager, goes to his death on the gallows here tonight for the "almost perfect" murder of his wife.

Grammer was convicted of bludgeoning his attractive, 33-year-old wife to death in August 1952 and sending her body hurtling downhill in an automobile so that it would appear she died in an accident.

Two county officers, who happened by almost at the instant of the wreck, found a pebble wedged under the accelerator of the auto. Mrs. Grammer's wounds didn't match the condition of the car.

Dayton Engineer Raps Warren Dam

WASHINGTON (AP)—A proposed dam north of Warren, Ohio, yesterday was criticized by a Dayton engineering consultant as "wholly unnecessary," too expensive and unfair to landowners who would be flooded out.

K. G. Breene of Dayton made the statements at a hearing on the $59 million Mahoning-Grand River floodway conducted by the Army Board of Engineers.

Breene represents the main opponent of the project, the Upper Ohio Valley Assn. of Pittsburgh. Breene claims one of the chief beneficiaries of the proposed dam, Youngstown, now has "reasonably adequate" flood control.

Ike To Seek Public Backing

Nationwide Appeal For Program Slated

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower will make a fresh appeal for public support of his legislative program in a major television-radio address tonight. It is scheduled for 8 p. m. EST.

His immediate address is a half-hour speech will be a group of self-styled "political amateurs," the National Citizens for Eisenhower Congressional Committee.

This group opens a three-day meeting tonight with a congressional reception to be addressed by Vice President Nixon. A hurriedly arranged dinner will follow with the chief executive speaking. Up until late yesterday the President had been listed only for some brief informal remarks.

The White House said ABC would carry the speech direct on TV and radio, NBC direct on radio and by delayed film on TV (9:30 p. m. EST) and Mutual on a radio rebroadcast (10:30 p. m. EST). Other coverage was subject to pending arrangements.

THE PRESIDENT'S decision to go on the air and his choice of forum were significant. He has a strong attachment for the volunteer group that worked for him in his 1952 presidential race and is now engaged in a drive to marshal Democratic and independent votes for Republican congressional candidates pledged to the Eisenhower program.

Also, the White House decision is in line with the President's June 2 news conference statements that enactment of his program is so important to the national welfare that he intends to give what he termed his exclusive attention. He has voiced concern with slow congressional action on the program.

Five senatorial candidates which Citizens Committee officials say have been promised the group's support were announced today as Senators Kuchel (Calif.), Cooper (Ky.), Saltonstall (Mass), Ferguson (Mich) and Cordon (Ore).

Ohio Democrats To Map Strategy

COLUMBUS (AP)—Democratic plans for fall state and congressional campaigns were to be discussed here today by national and state democratic leaders.

Speakers scheduled include national chairman Stephen A. Mitchell, Sen. Thomas A. Burke, Gov. Frank J. Lausche and Victor Harding, chairman of the congressional campaign committee.

The session will be topped tonight with the $50-a-plate Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner. About 1,000 are expected to attend.

Solons Appointed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles yesterday announced the appointment of Reps. McGregor (R-Ohio) and Fallon (D-Md) to represent the United States at the Pan-American highway conference July 11-12 in Caracas, Venezuela.

ence upon the youth which comes in contact with such publications. "They deal with crime, sex, and frequently glorify conduct which does not lead to the building of a wholesome character among our citizenship, so vitally needed as the basis for a healthy nation.

"My attention has been called to a study made by 'The Cincinnati Committee on the Evaluation of Comic Books,' in May, 1948. That Committee found, dealing with the subject of titles of 417 comic books, the following conditions: 142 unobjectionable; 121 with some objections; 114 objectionable; 41 very objectionable.

"My belief is that the condition will get worse. Publishers of comic books, moving pictures, and other media, in their competitive efforts do not react generally to self-imposed restraints but usually keep creeping more and more toward publication of pictures appealing to morbidity, emotions and passions.

"Manifestly, parents are worried. Legislatures are taking cognizance of the subject. The probability is great that the General Assembly of Ohio will do likewise."

In the next article, read how other cities, big and small, are already taking action against "comic books". And how the suggestion by a Circleville merchant may help pave the way for a far more rigid control of such publications in this area.

ence upon the youth which comes in contact with such publications. "They deal with crime, sex, and frequently glorify conduct which does not lead to the building of a wholesome character among our citizenship, so vitally needed as the basis for a healthy nation.

"My attention has been called to a study made by 'The Cincinnati Committee on the Evaluation of Comic Books,' in May, 1934. Publishers of comic books, moving pictures, and other media, in their competitive efforts do not react generally to self-imposed restraints but usually keep creeping more and more toward publication of pictures appealing to morbidity, emotions and passions.

Plastics Field Counting On Booming Future

$1 Billion In Sales Seen As Total For Mushrooming Industry

NEW YORK (AP)—The plastics industry, busy feeding raw material to makers of everything from baby pants to automobiles, expects to produce more than a billion dollars worth of the stuff this year.

Output is being estimated at a whopping 3,150,000,000 pounds—enough to supply you and every other American with nearly 20 pounds. That will beat last year's record production of 2,783,000,000 pounds.

George C. Miller, president of the Bakelite Co., a division of Union Carbide and Carbon Corp., points out that plastics have come into their own largely in the past dozen years. Yet, he said, they have created whole new industries, stimulated others to a complete re-birth, and given many large industries impetus for new growth.

"The music recording industry, for example," Miller says, "had a second start on life when plastics provided an unbreakable phonograph record at low cost that could be produced quickly in large quantities and with high tonal fidelity."

He observes that all of the cars and trucks produced in this country in 1953 had windshields and windows of safety glass, made possible by plastics. Four out of every five gallons of paint contain some synthetic resin, which allows the paint to be rolled smoothly and quickly on a wall.

"Roller painting by itself has inspired a profitable new paint-it-yourself market for the industry," Miller says.

There are many other impressive figures: About 8 out of 10 shower curtains sold today are made of vinyl plastic film and more than 7 out of 10 raincoats are made of the same material. The 35 million dollar retail business in inflatable beach toys and backyard wading pools is based on vinyl film. More than 150 million feet of garden hose will be made of it this year.

Vinyl plastics line many things besides baby pants—electroplating tanks, for instance. They are molded into soft dolls' heads and extruded as electrical wire insulation. But the fastest growing plastic is polyethylene.

"Rolled out into thin film," says the Bakelite president, "polyethylene makes a tough, translucent packaging material that has stimulated the pre-packaging of foods, fresh fruit and vegetables. Molded into squeezable and unbreakable bottles, it has invaded the container industry. Flexible pipe made of polyethylene is widely used for irrigation."

Another fast moving plastic is polystyrene. Much of the wall tile in the latest bathrooms and kitchens is made of this plastic. It also is found in many paint emulsions and is molded into many toys and novelties.

50,000 Bullets Needed To Kill 1 Red Soldier

Small Arms Officer Says Average Is Disgrace To U. S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — It took 50,000 rounds of small arms fire to kill one Red Chinese soldier in the Korean War.

Lt. Col. Walter J. Fellenz, chairman of the Small Arms Committee at the Army's Infantry School at Fort Benning, Ga., considers this something of a national disgrace.

With other members of an Army-civilian research team, he helped figure out the firing effectiveness in Korea. In contrast, he points out, a Confederate rifleman at the battle of Chancellorsville averaged only about 208 rounds to knock off a Yankee.

Obviously, the former history instructor at West Point says "something is wrong, for the weapons we have today are far superior to the musket."

Fellenz is somewhat rabid on the subject of shooting. He is a product of the fighting in Europe and Korea and takes the view that if you aim at something you should hit it, thereby saving lives for your side, shortening the war and saving taxpayers money.

One of the reasons Fellenz believes so much ammunition was wasted in Korea was the character of the fighting—much of it at night.

He is convinced that the Oriental can see much better at night than the Occidental, who long has been accustomed to artificial light, whether candles, incandescent bulbs or fluorescent tubes.

Furthermore, he has concluded the Westerner just doesn't like to fight at night. This, he believes, is the result of centuries of training in sportsmanship, growing out of the age of chivalry, when knight warfare ruled out night warfare. It wasn't considered cricket to hit the enemy when he wasn't looking.

Fellenz says that the Oriental isn't much bothered by such restraints, that he is a practical man who hits the enemy when and where he can with the least danger to himself.

"In Korea," he says, "the Allies had superiority with artillery and they also had air supremacy. The Chinaman and the North Korean learned very quickly that if they stuck their heads up in daylight they were going to have their scalps parted."

"So what did they do? They scouted around to see what they had that we didn't. It was night vision."

Fellenz says that while Americans learned a lot about night fighting in the Pacific during World War II, they didn't bother to get it down on paper for future reference.

The troops in Korea, he says, had to learn it all over again.

Fellenz is engaged at Ft. Benning in teaching soldiers how to shoot at night. It's quick a trick.

Vision experts long have known that at night you do not see in a straight line. Objects appear to the right or left of where they really are. A target will fade away completely if you close one eye and try to aim.

One trick is to keep both eyes open and the head high so that you can see the muzzle of your rifle and the apparent target in line.

The common error of night firing, Fellenz says, is to fire three to six feet too high and to the left. His remedy:

"Drill our people into making compensation for night shooting until it becomes as instinctive as the cowboy shooting from the hip."

Fellenz, who came to Washington recently to help set up the National Rifle Assn.'s big shoot at Camp Perry, Ohio, says that a majority of the troops taking the night firing course for the first time, even Korean combat veterans will not hit the target at all.

A man with exceptional night vision may get as many as six hits out of 16 shots on the black target.

At the end of the course of instruction the number of hits will average somewhere between 10 and 14 out of 16 rounds.

Driver Cusses Wrong Motorist

DENVER (AP)—Leo May, 23, of Denver swore at the motorist who pulled alongside him and cautioned him about reckless driving. At the curb he challenged the man to a fight.

But three hours later he quietly pleaded guilty to charges of using profanity and received a $10 fine from Municipal Judge George McNamara, the motorist who had admonished him.

Rattlesnake Holds Workers At Bay

STROUD, Okla. (AP)—Troopers Art Phelps and Mayes Lowery, answering an emergency call to the maintenance headquarters of the Turner Turnpike yesterday, arrived to find a six-foot rattlesnake holding a turnpike crew at bay.

Lowery shot the rattler's head off with his service pistol. Workers then reached their equipment and operations were resumed.

PRESIDENT'S 'WATER BOY' DOUBLES AS COLLEGE HEAD

By RAYMOND WILCOVE

Central Press Correspondent
WASHINGTON—It will come as a surprise to many to learn that President Eisenhower has a "water boy" at the White House who serves as a college president on weekends.

That is the way Kevin McCann, who was born in Ireland 41 years ago, refers to himself. He says he is the White House "water boy." Actually, he is one of the most important men around the President. When not on duty in Washington, he attends to his chores as president of Defiance college in Ohio.

Presidents are wont to gather about them when they enter the White House old personal friends on whose advice they can rely and in whom they can find companionship. Dwight D. Eisenhower is an exception.

Franklin D. Roosevelt had with him Louis McHenry Howe, Stephen T. Early and Marvin McIntyre, old friends of many years standing.

Harry S. Truman had a boyhood friend as his press secretary, the late Charles G. Ross, and Matt Connelly, who had been with him since his senatorial days, served as his appointment secretary.

Kevin McCann

to describe his duties, he wrote in: "To think."

It is his task to interpret to those who help write the President's speeches how Mr. Eisenhower feels and his thinking on various subjects. Actually, says McCann, the President writes most of his own speeches.

McCann explained that after the President obtains a draft of a speech written for him, "he will take it with him and work on it that night."

"WHEN HE brings it back next morning," McCann added, "there will be interlineations at almost every line, long marginal notes, and sometimes a half page of writing on the other side. He may accept page two, but rewrite page three. If he has a week's time, the speech may be 95 per cent Eisenhower. If he has more time, it may be 99 per cent."

McCann served with the President in the Pentagon, when Mr. Eisenhower was Army chief of staff; in New York, when he was president of Columbia university; and in Paris, when he was commander of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization forces.

In August, 1951, he became president of Defiance college, on Mr. Eisenhower's recommendation. However, in February, 1952, the President asked him to return to

Korea Now Linked With U.S. News

SEOUL (AP)—President Syngman Rhee has pulled a switch linking the 61 South Korean news and radio subscribers of the Korean Pacific Press to the worldwide radio-teletype facilities of the Associated Press.

"This is another one of my dreams come true," Rhee said. "I always wanted Korea to receive news reports direct from America. This is a realization of that dream."

The Korean Pacific Press, the

Last October, McCann was called to the White House to help out again when Emmett Hughes, the President's chief speech writer, resigned.

Hubby-Picket Faces Hearing

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—Officers yesterday stopped Mrs. Sammie Wolfson from carrying a sign in front of the theater her husband manages.

The 40-year-old wife, who says she plans to file for a divorce, was picketing the theater with a sign which stated that Wolfson was "trying to keep from giving his wife any money to live on."

Mrs. Wolfson faced a hearing on a charge of disorderly conduct in police court today.

Farmer Takes Pasture To Cows

SEAFORD, Del. (AP)—Herman J. Ockels can't very well turn his cows out to pasture, so he brings the pasture to them.

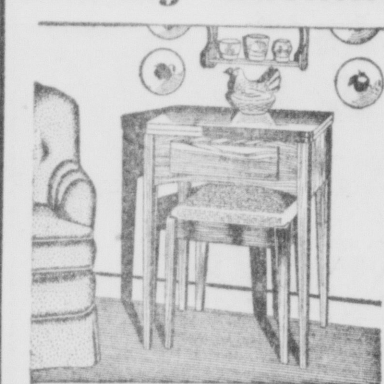

"And they're just lazy enough to like it," the Seaford farmer says of the silver platter treatment.

Ockels drives a forage harvester into the pasture, cuts a load of chopped grass, brings it to the barns and serves it to the cows. All they have to do is stand there and eat it.

Ockels says the "lazy cow" idea conserves grass. Anyway, he doesn't have much choice. His farm is bordered on one side by the town of Seaford and on the other by a dual lane highway. He'd rather pamper his cows than have them risk injury by grazing.

PRESIDENT'S 'WATER BOY' DOUBLES AS COLLEGE HEAD

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
Central Press Correspondent
WASHINGTON—It will come as a surprise to many to learn that President Eisenhower has a "water boy" at the White House who serves as a college president on weekends.

That is the way Kevin McCann, who was born in Ireland 41 years ago, refers to himself. He says he is the White House "water boy." Actually, he is one of the most important men around the President. When not on duty in Washington, he attends to his chores as president of Defiance college in Ohio.

Presidents are wont to gather about them when they enter the White House old personal friends on whose advice they can rely and in whom they can find companionship. Dwight D. Eisenhower is an exception.

Franklin D. Roosevelt had with him Louis McHenry Howe, Stephen T. Early and Marvin McIntyre, old friends of many years standing.

Harry S. Truman had a boyhood friend as his press secretary, the late Charles G. Ross, and Matt Connelly, who had been with him since his senatorial days, served as his appointment secretary.

Kevin McCann

WHO ARE the men around Mr. Eisenhower? The most important are recent associates of the President. Sherman Adams, the assistant to the President; Thomas E. Stephens, appointment secretary; James C. Hagerty, press secretary, and Bernard M. Shanley, counsel, did not meet Eisenhower until the 1952 election campaign. McCann has known the President since 1946. He is one of six aides whose association with the chief executive go back to his Army days.

The others are Lieut. Col. William G. Draper, pilot of the presidential plane, the Columbine; Maj. Gen. Howard Snyder, the White House physician; Brig. Gen. Paul T. Carroll, staff secretary who handles liaison with the Defense department; and Maj. Gen. Wilton B. Persons, deputy assistant to the President.

Bryce Harlow, former chief clerk of the House armed services committee, is the chief White House speech writer. His association with the President goes back only one year.

McCANN, having been intimately associated with Mr. Eisenhower for eight years, is recognized as one of the key men in the White House. Officially, he is a $50-a-day consultant. He normally works three or four days at the White House, spending his weekends at Defiance college.

McCann, a six-foot, 150-pound, blue-eyed, gray-haired man, has an unusual position. He perhaps best described it once when, in connection with another job, he filled out a Civil service questionnaire. Asked

Farmer Takes Pasture To Cows

SEAFORD, Del. (P)—Herman J. Ockels can't very well turn his cows out to pasture, so he brings the pasture to them.

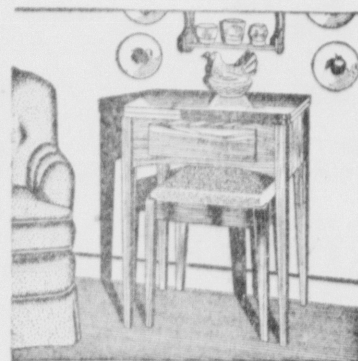

"And they're just lazy enough to like it," the Seaford farmer says of the silver platter treatment.

Ockels drives a forage harvester into the pasture, cuts a load of chopped grass, brings it to the barns and serves it to the cows. All they have to do is stand there and eat it.

Ockels says the "lazy cow" idea conserves grass. Anyway, he doesn't have much choice. His farm is bordered on one side by the town of Seaford and on the other by a dual lane highway. He'd rather pamper his cows than have them risk injury by grazing.

Hubby-Picket Faces Hearing

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (P)—Officers yesterday stopped Mrs. Sammie Wolfson from carrying a sign in front of the theater her husband manages.

The 40-year-old wife, who says she plans to file for a divorce, was picketing the theater with a sign which stated that Wolfson was "trying to keep from giving his wife any money to live on."

Mrs. Wolfson faced a hearing on a charge of disorderly conduct in police court today.

AFRICA STILL WAITS
IT IS SOMEWHAT puzzling that Western Europe, with United States support, isn't making more headway in the development of Africa. This comes up again in connection with reports that the French are exploring for minerals in the Sahara Desert.
Oil is the main prize sought, but in the course of that search there are signs of gold, iron ore, manganese, copper, potash, tin, coal and platinum. The French naturally want these riches but probably will grant concessions in return for United States capital investment and know-how.
It will be all to the good if this exploratory work proceeds to the point of development and production. Development of natural resources should be under way in Africa. It would provide homes and livelihood for millions in overcrowded Europe, there would be an abundance of raw materials for the free nations and another continent would be added as a rich market for American and European manufactured goods.
The development of Africa will probably come to pass, but there should be more haste about it. With the experience gained in the Americas, there could be profitable exploitation of the resources of Africa.

UNPREDICTABLE ERNEST
THERE WAS something intriguing in Madrid cables which revealed that Ava Gardner, the Hollywood siren, took lessons in the fine art of slaying bulls, while Ernest Hemingway—the novelist, who recently experienced two highly profitable air crashes in Africa—looked on approvingly.
No doubt the ferocious bulls of Spain will somehow manage to survive the unexpected menace of Miss Gardner. After all, it isn't the first time the bulls have been cast in unusual publicity roles.
But the portrait of Hemingway grinning approval of anything occurring in Franco territory is strangely intriguing. Only yesterday Hemingway was snorting fire at Mr. Paunch and bleeding in every column for the luckless masses he was griding under heel.
Apparently the great Ernest reasoned that his fight with Franco was just another bull fight, and that the sporting thing now is to kneel gracefully with one's back turned toward the horns of the bull.
The term court plaster is so named from the old custom of English ladies at court wearing specks of black plaster on their faces. In those days, presumably, milady was not considered well groomed unless she was plastered.
The famous statesman, Daniel Webster, originated the custom of standing when "The Star Spangled Banner" is played. But we're willing to bet even he couldn't reach some of those high notes.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG
news behind the news
WASHINGTON — Although the Army-McCarthy hearings impress the vast television audience as weighted with a larger cast and more lavish scenery than many Broadway productions, it will be one of the cheapest investigations that Congress ever conducted. The total cost will amount to between $15,000 and $20,000, depending on how much longer it drags along.
Chairman Karl E. Mundt of South Dakota, as well as senators not on the investigating committee, have received hundreds of letters, bewailing the "wasteful extravagance." Besides asking whether the taxpayers will foot the bill, they usually estimate that the citizens will be set back by several hundred thousand dollars for what Senator McCarthy derides as a "farce," a "show" and a "red minnow burlesque."
"That is a ridiculous figure," says Chairman Mundt of the estimate.
MONEY—The money for the inquiry will be paid out of the specific appropriation of the committee on Government Operations, which is headed by Senator McCarthy. That body was recently granted an additional $307,000 with only one dissenting vote, Sen. J. William Fulbright of Arkansas.
The members of the Mundt subcommittee, however, have agreed unanimously to ask the Senate to reimburse the Government Committee on Operations for all expenses incurred in the current controversy. If the Senate should refuse, which is doubtful, the committee would have a similar amount for its normal work.
But even if the full Senate withheld reimbursement money, McCarthy would simply request a larger appropriation later on. Unless he is hurt beyond repair in the showdown with the Army, he will undoubtedly get it. Few members dare to vote against "exposing Communism."
SMALL PAY—Despite the exacting work and the sacrifice of his own $60,000-a-year legal business, Committee Counsel Ray H. Jenkins receives only the salary paid to a senator's administrative assistant, which is $10,000 a year. But he is paid only for the time he works, which amounts to about $833 a month. He must pay his own living expenses here, which probably exceeds his Senate income.
His three assistants draw the same pay. Thus, the committee's legal staff for a month costs about $3,300. Army Counsel Joseph N. Welch serves without pay. His one Boston civilian assistant also gets $833 a month. The Army lawyers and aides to receive nothing beyond their regular salary.
INCIDENTALS — The loud-speaker system used by the committee members, lawyers and witnesses costs $25 a day, or about $600 for 24 sessions in a month. Each page of testimony transcript costs 25 cents, and there were 5,000 pages in the first month, or $1,250, with extra copies, this will total about $6,000. Incidentals are estimated at about $1,000.

George E. Sokolsky's These Days
In countries where most of the people are illiterate, the scholar stands apart, a person to be respected and honored because he can read. In China, for instance, a Hanlin scholar (equivalent perhaps of an American Ph.D. before that degree showed like a spring rain) was permitted a symbol before his door; among the Jews of the ghettos, the scholar sat in the front seats in the synagogue and the wealthiest men prided themselves upon obtaining such a son-in-law.
In Czarist Russia, the intelligentsia were a class apart, an elite who could read. The person who could read more than one language or who had studied in a foreign university was indeed a superior being. It was not unusual to meet an intelligent Russian who could not only read but speak five or ten languages.
As literacy spreads among the people, mere ability to read is not so great an achievement because everybody can read. The scholar ceases to be a member of an elite group and becomes just a person, wise or foolish, able or incompetent, intellectually courageous or just a jobholder. In Russia, it used not to be unusual to hear a person say, "I am intelligent." Can you imagine any person saying in this country, "I am an intellectual"? Surely, it would convey no precise meaning, because this is a classless society in which every man, woman and child seems to have an opinion on every subject and the adults can vote an opinion conclusively in an election.
O the other hand, the disciplines of learning do give to certain persons either expertness in a particular field or a broad, philosophical view of the forces of nature and the activities of man. Learning is a matter of intellectual discipline.
Knowledge run riot is unrelated to wisdom. We have all met the "walking encyclopedia" who knows everything, from how many stars are in the heavens to the baseball scores for a decade, but who cannot apply his knowledge to anything because he possesses no disciplines, no capacity for evaluation, no apparatus for mature thought in narrow or broad fields. The scholar then is distinguished as a person with a disciplined mind.
There was a time when it was assumed that an educated man knew everything; today, such an assumption is impossible. The cosmic philosopher, the mind that can encompass the whole of human knowledge and can develop such a system as Spinoza or Kant did, or even to make a try at it as Bergson did, is unknown in our day in any part of the world.
Undoubtedly the most accepted philosophical figure of our era is Karl Marx, whose ideas control the minds of hundreds of millions of human beings; yet he was a man of comparatively small knowledge even for his times and his special theory of dialectical materialism does not stand up in the face of our knowledge either of the social or natural sciences.
This discussion inevitably leads to what, in our country, has been vulgarized into the word, egghead. I do not quite understand what an "egghead" is, but I assume that it is a characterization of a scholar who goes into the public service and acts beyond his capacities.
The American penchant for a slang phrase makes an "egghead" a radical, a member of the A.D.A., a professor who is a Fifth Amendment Communist or a fellow-traveler who often becomes such because he is a busybody.

DIET AND HEALTH
Food Is Only Thing You Should Swallow
By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.
WITH so much variety in foods, it is hard to imagine why objects other than food are swallowed! However, this occurs not only with children but with adults, more often than believed.
Accidental Swallowing
Accidental swallowing of such objects is most common, of course, in children.
Luckily, the human intestines seem very capable of dealing with a wide variety of bulky and awkwardly shaped objects. Many of these will pass uneventfully through the bowel.
However, not all persons who swallow things escape without ill effects.
May Cause Rupture
Many times, the intestines or the esophagus, the tube that leads from the throat to the stomach, or even the stomach itself is ruptured by these objects. Certain objects may cause obstruction of the bowel, with such symptoms as nausea, vomiting, diarrhea or constipation.
Many people do not recall what they might have swallowed.
A Wide Assortment
All sorts of things, from false teeth to tooth brushes, nails, wood splinters, and cloth, have been swallowed. Coins are very often swallowed by children, as are safety pins and buttons.
In many cases, children, as well as adults, swallow jewelry, by accident or design.
Hair Is Swallowed
Many children and young people, as well as those who are mentally ill, will pluck and swallow hair. They do this unconsciously and the hair usually accumulates in the stomach. It may become as much as six and a half pounds. It can cause indigestion, severe pain and usually must be removed surgically.
Anyone who swallows a foreign body should be under the care of a physician. He can determine by X-ray and other tests whether the object will cause discomfort and whether it will pass out of the body in a normal manner.
QUESTION AND ANSWER
Mr. V.: Is it true that X-ray treatment helps some cases of asthma?
Answer: Yes, in certain cases that do not respond to the conventional methods of treatment, X-ray treatments may be of some help.

CHAPTER TWENTY-EIGHT
MISS BISHOP was all a wiff sympathy as she listened to Joan's tale of woe. "I'm so sorry to hear about this. But he is all right now? Out of the hospital and home again?"
"Oh, yes! He's home. He's going back to work soon. But—well—I had to sell one of our antique pieces to pay the hospital bill and—"
Finally she was finished. Miss Bishop said gently, "I'm truly sorry about all this. Very sorry, indeed. I suppose you don't like to call on your parents?"
Joan shook her head. "We don't want to and we don't feel we should. My mother is a widow, living on a very limited pension and whatever she can get by renting rooms. Todd's people are elderly and not well, either of them. Besides, they are facing retirement at any early date. We think—we've always thought—that we should manage life, however it comes to us, by ourselves. Todd has a couple of government bonds and we're going to sell those, but they haven't matured yet and they won't be nearly enough."
The older woman regarded Joan quietly for a moment. "Of course," she said presently, "I am in no position to promise you anything for the firm. I shall have to pass on your story to Mr. Adams. But I'll be glad to do that as soon as possible."
"Do you think—today, perhaps?"
"Yes, today." She paused. "I know he will ask me if I have reminded you that what you are doing, actually, is mortgaging your future. He will want to know if I have pointed out to you that whatever extra advance is made to you now must, of course, be deducted from your next statement."
"I understand that."
"And we don't, naturally, make a practice of this sort of thing."
"No, you couldn't. Please believe, Miss Bishop, that I just hate to ask this. I thought about it for quite a while before I decided I would. But—well—I really think I'll be able to do better work on my book. If I'm not too worried about money."
"That's probably true. Well, don't worry, then. Take home with you the thought that I will do my best to present your story for you and that I know Mr. Adams is understanding."
Joan stood up. "There's only one thing that can possibly be nicer than being a writer," she said, a trifle unsteadily.
"What's that?"
"Being a publisher. Being able to do such things as this. Good."

by Miss Bishop. And thank you. Thank you ever so much. I'll try to make this third book my best."
"Joan had only briefly sketched in the story of the predicament that she and Todd were in to Miss Bishop. Todd had been more than angry with her for selling the chair. He had been quite stricken. "It certainly makes me feel like a heel," he said, from his hospital bed. "Just exactly like a heel, only worse. Your selling the furniture and using your royalty to get me out of hock here."
"You make it sound awful. To me it seems sensible. We both have always said those antiques were an investment. Well, now we've proved it. Besides, I'm the heel, not you. It was I that wanted to spend all our wedding money. And I frittered away my own, too."
"You did not fritter it away! You used it to feed us through August. Don't think I don't know it!"
"Not all of it, Todd. Some of it was frittered. I don't know where or how, I'm sure. But—"
"The point is—it was yours. You earned it. You should never have had to spend it except any way you pleased."
"Todd, darling, we've been over this before. You're saying again that what's yours is mine and what's mine is my own. And that's not fair. This is a fifty-fifty partnership."
Todd shook his head. "I don't see it that way. I never did and I never will. Besides, you loved that chair. You found it. You re-finished it and—well—you loved it. I certainly do feel like a heel," he repeated, flapping the covers on his bed angrily.
Joan said nothing. It was best to let him get all his anger out of his system.
"No," he said presently, "being strapped this way is my fault, not yours. I should have taken out insurance weeks ago. I thought about it. I had those two government bonds and I could have sold them. They'd have more than paid for one year. But I thought I ought to hold on to them until they matured. Or I could have been firmer with you about buying our antiques," he finished.
"We were both wrong, darling. Let's admit it. We were foolish."
"More than you!" He yanked at the covers again. "It was up to me to watch our finances. I took on that job. You washed your hands of it. Remember? Good grief! What kind of husband am I, anyway? I not only don't earn enough to take care of my wife, but I can't take care of what I do earn!"
"Oh, Todd, please! You're just working yourself up! And it isn't necessary. We'll get out of this! We'll manage! Who's complaining?"
"I am—and loudly—and over and over again. I don't like the situation. I don't like myself." And he sat lain there, glowering at her until she bent and kissed him softly.
"Things could be worse, you know," she whispered.
One arm came up and went around her shoulders. "You're a honey. But hear me swear this. Some day you're going to have a house filled to the roof with swan-arm chairs. Upstairs and downstairs! And you won't have to spend your hard-earned royalty on me, either. You won't even have to write books."
She laughed. "But I could if I wanted to, couldn't I?"
"Oh, yes, if you wanted to, I suppose. But the money from them will be—well—cream in our coffee. Jam on our bread. A luxury. Not a necessity."
The check came on the day that Todd first went back to teaching. She tore open the familiar envelope with a pounding heart, not daring to expect too much, yet unable to help hoping. And there it was. One hundred dollars! And with it the very nicest note she had ever received from her publishers. Her eyes raced over the sheet.
"So sorry to learn from Miss Bishop of your husband's recent illness—understand from her that you have your next forthcoming book well organized—pleased with the sales this series is making—thought perhaps a little extra income at this trying time might not be unwelcome—enclosing—charged—royalty account."
The thing to do now was to get busy and write Jane at Home. Or should she call it Jane in Business?
Then, suddenly, that, too, became a sobering thought, for with the paltry knowledge she had of antiques, now was she going to write such a book as she contemplated? Honestly, she had the most colossal nerve when she stopped to think about it! She could not write if you did not know what you were writing about. She had learned that long ago. You could not bluff. You had to know.
"I'll get books," she thought. "I'll go to the library and get books. I'm sure there must be plenty there that will help me."

AFRICA STILL WAITS

IT IS SOMEWHAT puzzling that Western Europe, with United States support, isn't making more headway in the development of Africa. This comes up again in connection with reports that the French are exploring for minerals in the Sahara Desert.

Oil is the main prize sought, but in the course of that search there are signs of gold, iron ore, manganese, copper, potash, tin, coal and platinum. The French naturally want these riches but probably will grant concessions in return for United States capital investment and know-how.

It will be all to the good if this exploratory work proceeds to the point of development and production. Development of natural resources should be under way in Africa. It would provide homes and livelihood for millions in overcrowded Europe, there would be an abundance of raw materials for the free nations and another continent would be added as a rich market for American and European manufactured goods.

The development of Africa will probably come to pass, but there should be more haste about it. With the experience gained in the Americas, there could be profitable exploitation of the resources of Africa.

UNPREDICTABLE ERNEST

THERE WAS something intriguing in Madrid cables which revealed that A. V. Gardner, the Hollywood siren, took lessons in the fine art of slaying bulls, while Ernest Hemingway—the novelist, who recently experienced two highly profitable air crashes in Africa—looked on approvingly. No doubt the ferocious bulls of Spain will somehow manage to survive the unexpected menace of Miss Gardner. After all, it isn't the first time the bulls have been cast in unusual publicity roles.

But the portrait of Hemingway grinning approval of anything occurring in Franco territory is strangely intriguing. Only yesterday Hemingway was snorting fire at Mr. Paunch and bleeding in every column for the luckless masses he was griding under heel.

Apparently the great Ernest reasoned that his fight with Franco was just another bull fight, and that the sporting thing now is to kneel gracefully with one's back turned toward the horns of the bull.

The term court plaster is so named from the old custom of English ladies at court wearing specks of black plaster on their faces. In those days, presumably, milady was not considered well groomed unless she was plastered.

The famous statesman, Daniel Webster, originated the custom of standing when "The Star Spangled Banner" is played. But we're willing to bet even he couldn't reach some of those high notes.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

In countries where most of the people are illiterate, the scholar stands apart, a person to be respected and honored because he can read. In China, for instance, a Hanlin scholar (equivalent perhaps of an American Ph.D. before that degree showered like a spring rain) was permitted a symbol before his door; among the Jews of the ghettos, the scholar sat in the front seats in the synagogue and the wealthiest men prided themselves upon obtaining such a son-in-law.

In Czarist Russia, the intelligentsia were a class apart, an elite who could read. The person who could read more than one language or who had studied in a foreign university was indeed a superior being. It was not unusual to meet an intelligent Russian who could not only read but speak five or ten languages.

As literacy spreads among the people, mere ability to read is not so great an achievement because everybody can read. The scholar ceases to be a member of an elite group and becomes just a person, wise or foolish, able or incompetent, intellectually courageous or just a jobholder. In Russia, it used not to be unusual to hear a person say, "I am intelligent." Can you imagine any person saying in this country, "I am an intellectual"? Surely, it would convey no precise meaning, because this is a classless society in which every man, woman and child seems to have an opinion on every subject and the adults can vote an opinion conclusively in an election.

O the other hand, the disciplines of learning do give to certain persons either expertise in a particular field or a broad, philosophical view of the forces of nature and the activities of man. Learning is a matter of intellectual discipline.

Knowledge run riot is unrelated to wisdom. We have all met the "walking encyclopedia" who knows everything, from how many stars are in the heavens to the baseball scores for a decade, but who cannot apply his knowledge to anything because he possesses no disciplines, no capacity for evaluation, no apparatus for mature thought in narrow or broad fields. The scholar then is distinguished as a person with a disciplined mind.

There was a time when it was assumed that an educated man knew everything; today, such an assumption is impossible. The cosmic philosopher, the mind that can encompass the whole of human knowledge and can develop such a system as Spinoza or Kant did, or even to make a try at it as Bergson did, is unknown in our day in any part of the world.

Undoubtedly the most accepted philosophical figure of our era is Karl Marx, whose ideas control the minds of hundreds of millions of human beings; yet he was a man of comparatively small knowledge even for his times and his special theory of dialectical materialism does not stand up in the face of our knowledge either of the social or natural sciences.

This discussion inevitably leads to what, in our country, has been vulgarized into the word, egghead. I do not quite understand what an "egghead" is, but I assume that it is a characterization of a scholar who goes into the public service and acts beyond his capacities.

The American penchant for a slang phrase makes an "egghead" a radical, a member of the A.D.A., a professor who is a Fifth Amendment Communist or a fellow-traveler who often becomes such because he is a busybody.

DIET AND HEALTH

Food Is Only Thing You Should Swallow

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

WITH so much variety in foods, it is hard to imagine why objects other than food are swallowed!

However, this occurs not only with children but with adults, more often than believed.

Accidental Swallowing

Accidental swallowing of such objects is most common, of course, in children.

Luckily, the human intestines seem very capable of dealing with a wide variety of bulky and awkwardly shaped objects. Many of these will pass uneventfully through the bowel.

However, not all persons who swallow things escape without ill effects.

May Cause Rupture

Many times, the intestines or the esophagus, the tube that leads from the throat to the stomach, or even the stomach itself is ruptured by these objects. Certain objects may cause obstruction of the bowel, with such symptoms as nausea, vomiting, diarrhea or constipation.

Many people do not recall what they might have swallowed.

A Wide Assortment

All sorts of things, from false teeth to tooth brushes, nails, wood splinters, and cloth, have been swallowed. Coins are very often swallowed by children, as are safety pins and buttons.

In many cases, children, as well as adults, swallow jewelry, by accident or design.

Hair Is Swallowed

Many children and young people, as well as those who are mentally ill, will pluck and swallow hair. They do this unconsciously and the hair usually accumulates in the stomach. It may become as much as six and a half pounds. It can cause indigestion, severe pain and usually must be removed surgically.

Anyone who swallows a foreign body should be under the care of a physician. He can determine by X-ray and other tests whether the object will cause discomfort and whether it will pass out of the body in a normal manner.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

Mr. V.: Is it true that X-ray treatment helps some cases of asthma?

Answer: Yes, in certain cases that do not respond to the conventional methods of treatment, X-ray treatments may be of some help.

CHAPTER TWENTY-EIGHT
MISS BISHOP was all a swirl of sympathy as she listened to Joan's tale of woe. "I'm so sorry to hear about this. But he is all right now? Out of the hospital and home again?"

"Oh, yes! He's home. He's going back to work soon. But—well—I had to sell one of our antique pieces to pay the hospital bill and—"

Finally she was finished. Miss Bishop said gently, "I'm truly sorry about all this. Very sorry, indeed. I suppose you don't like to call on your parents?"

Joan shook her head. "We don't want to and we don't feel we should. My mother is a widow, living on a very limited pension and whatever she can get by renting rooms. Todd's people are elderly and not well, either of them. Besides, they are facing retirement at an early date. We think—we've always thought—that we should manage life, however it comes to us, by ourselves. Todd has a couple of government bonds and we're going to sell those, but they haven't matured yet and they won't be nearly enough."

The older woman regarded Joan quietly for a moment. "Of course," she said presently, "I can't do position to promise you anything for the firm. I shall have to pass on your story to Mr. Adams. But I'll be glad to do that as soon as possible."

"Do you think—today, perhaps?"

"Yes, today." She paused. "I know he will ask me if I have reminded you that what you are doing, actually, is mortgaging your future. He will want to know if I have pointed out to you that whatever extra advance is made to you now must, of course, be deducted from your next statement."

"I understand that."

"And we don't, naturally, make a practice of this sort of thing." "No, you couldn't. Please believe, Miss Bishop, that I just hate to ask this. I thought about it for quite a while before I decided I would. But—well—I really think I'll be able to do better work on my own, if I'm not too worried about money."

"That's probably true. Well, don't worry, then. Take home with you the thought that I will do my best to present your story for you and that I know Mr. Adams is understanding."

Joan stood up. "There's only one thing that can possibly be nicer than being a writer," she said, a trifle unsteadily.

"What's that?"

"Being a publisher. Being able to do such things as this. Good-by, Miss Bishop. And thank you. Thank you ever so much. I'll try to make this third book my best."

Joan had only briefly sketched in the story of the predicament that she and Todd were in to Miss Bishop. Todd had been more than angry with her for selling the furniture. He had been quite stricken.

"It certainly makes me feel like a heel," he said, from his hospital bed. "Just exactly like a heel, only worse. Your selling the furniture and using your royalty to get me out of here."

"You make it sound awful. To me it seems sensible. We both have always said those antiques were an investment. Well, now we've proved it. Besides, I'm the heel, not you. It was I that wanted to spend all our wedding money. And I frittered away my own, too."

"You did not fritter it away! You used it to feed us through August. Don't think I don't know it!"

"Not all of it, Todd. Some of it was frittered. I don't know where or how, I'm sure. But—"

"The point is—it was yours. You earned it. You should never have had to spend it except any way you pleased."

"Todd, darling, we've been—ver this before. You're saying again that what's yours is mine and what's mine is mine. And that's not fair. This is a fifty-fifty partnership."

Todd shook his head. "I don't see it that way. I never did and I never will. Besides, you loved that chair. You found it. You re-finished it and—well—you loved it. I certainly do feel like a heel," he repeated, flapping the covers on his bed angrily.

Joan said nothing. It was best to let him get all his anger out of his system.

"No," he said presently, "being strapped this way is my fault, not yours. I should have taken out insurance weeks ago. I thought about it. I had those two government bonds and I could have sold them. They'd have more than paid for one year. But I thought I ought to hold on to them until they matured. Or I could have been firmer with you about buying our antiques," he finished.

"We were both wrong, darling. Let's admit it. We were foolish."

"Me more than you!" He yanked at the covers again. "It was up to me to watch our finances. I took on that job. You washed your hands of it. Remember? Good grief! What kind of husband am I, anyway? I not only don't earn enough to take care of my wife, but I can't take care of what I do earn!"

Alice Ross Colver. Distributed by King

"Oh, Todd, please! You're just working yourself up! And it isn't necessary. We'll get out of this! We'll manage! Who's complaining?"

"I am—and loudly—and over and over again. I don't like the situation. I don't like myself." And he sat in there, glowering at her until she bent and kissed him softly.

"Things could be worse, you know," she whispered.

One arm came up and went around her shoulders. "You're a honey. But hear me swear this. Some day you're going to have a house filled to the roof with swan-arm chairs. Upstairs and downstairs! And you won't have to spend your hard-earned royalty on me, either. You won't even have to write books."

She laughed. "But I could if I wanted to, couldn't I?"

"Oh, yes, if you wanted to, I suppose. But the money from them will be—well—cream in our coffee. Jam on our bread. A luxury. Not a necessity."

The check came on the day that Todd first went back to teaching. She tore open the familiar envelope with a pounding heart, not daring to expect too much, yet unable to help hoping. And there it was. One hundred dollars! And with it the very nicest note she had ever received from her publishers. Her eyes raced over the sheet.

So sorry to learn from Miss Bishop of your husband's recent illness—understand from her that you have your next forthcoming book well organized—pleased with the sales this series is making—thought perhaps a little extra income at this trying time might not be unwelcome—enclosing—charged—royalty account."

The thing to do now was to get busy and write Jane at Home. Or should she call it Jane in Business?

Then, suddenly, that, too, became a sobering thought, for with the paltry knowledge she had of antiques, now was she going to write such a book as she contemplated? Honestly, she had the most colossal nerve when she stopped to think about it! You could not write if you did not know what you were writing about. She had learned that long ago. You could not bluff. You had to know.

"I'll get books," she thought. "I'll go to the library and get books. I'm sure there must be plenty there that will help me."

news behind

the news

By

WASHINGTON — Although the Army-McCarthy hearings impress the vast television audience as weighted with a larger cast and more lavish scenery than many Broadway productions, it will be one of the cheapest investigations that Congress ever conducted. The total cost will amount to between $15,000 and $20,000, depending on how much longer it drags along.

Chairman Karl E. Mundt of South Dakota, as well as senators not on the investigating committee, have received hundreds of letters, bawling the "wasteful extravagance." Besides asking whether the taxpayers will foot the bill, they usually estimate that the citizens will be set back by several hundred thousand dollars for what Senator McCarthy derides as a "farce," a "show" and a "red minnow burlesque."

"That is a ridiculous figure," says Chairman Mundt of the estimate.

MONEY—The money for the inquiry will be paid out of the specific appropriation of the committee on Government Operations, which is headed by Senator McCarthy. That body was recently granted an additional $307,000 with only one dissenting vote, Sen. J. William Fulbright of Arkansas.

The members of the Mundt subcommittee, however, have agreed unanimously to ask the Senate to reimburse the Government Committee on Operations for all expenses incurred in the current controversy. If the Senate should refuse, which is doubtful, the committee would have a similar amount for its normal work.

But even if the full Senate withheld reimbursement money, McCarthy would simply request a larger appropriation later on. Unless he is hurt beyond repair in the showdown with the Army, he will undoubtedly get it. Few members dare to vote against "exposing Communism."

SMALL PAY—Despite the exacting work and the sacrifice of his own $60,000-a-year legal business, Committee Counsel Ray H. Jenkins receives only the salary paid to a senator's administrative assistant, which is $10,000 a year. But he is paid only for the time he works, which amounts to about $833 a month. He must pay his own living expenses here, which probably exceeds his Senate income.

His three assistants draw the same pay. Thus, the committee's legal staff for a month costs about $3,300. Army Counsel Joseph N. Welch serves without pay. His one Boston civilian assistant also gets $833 a month. The Army lawyers and aides to receive nothing beyond their regular salary.

INCIDENTALS — The loud-speaker system used by the committee members, lawyers and witnesses costs $25 a day, or about $600 for 24 sessions in a month. Each page of testimony transcript costs 25 cents, and there were 5,000 pages in the first month, or $1,250, with extra copies, this will total about $6,000. Incidentals are estimated at about $1,000.

The lights, the cleaning and rearrangement of the Senate Caucus Room, where the hearings are held, are not included in this tabulation. This chamber, where a circus midjet once climbed on the knee of the late J. P. Morgan, is periodically the scene of more expansive congressional inquiries, and funds for its upkeep are carried in the legislative appropriation bill.

ESTIMATE—Thus, a month's hearings cost approximately $11,733. Since Chairman Mundt hopes to conclude in another two weeks, the overall expenditure should be slightly more than $18,000.

This figure, of course, takes no account of the intangible losses resulting from the legislative, legal and military work which the principals and minor characters would be performing, if it were not for their deep concern in the not so private life of G. David Schine. Nor does it take into consideration the time lost by everybody from housewives to cabinet members and Wall Street executives in watching the televised drama.

Natural Gas Rate Decision Brings Debate

Supreme Court Rule Seen In Midwest As Bringing Price Cut

NEW YORK (AP)—A big question mark was raised this week over the 60 million American homes where natural gas, piped from producing fields many miles away, is used for heating or cooking.

Would a supreme court decision giving federal authorities added power to control natural gas prices show up in consumer gas bills?

Opinion was divided. State and municipal authorities from the big Midwest gas consuming areas said the ruling would have a tremendous impact on consumer gas rates, and save consumers money.

Some industry sources said the effect would be negligible.

Companies which produce the gas and sell it to the interstate pipelines said the court's action would eventually result in higher consumer prices.

Target of the high court's ruling in the much-discussed Phillips Petroleum Co. case was the so-called wellhead price of natural gas. That's the price the cross-country pipeline companies pay for the gas they buy in the major oil-producing states like Louisiana and Texas. The court said the Federal Power Commission (FPC) not only has the right to set these prices but an obligation to do so.

Like many other oil producing companies, Phillips sells a huge amount of natural gas, much of it obtained as a byproduct of the company's oil drilling operations. The gas is extracted from the company's wells and delivered to the big interstate carriers over a Phillips-owned "gathering" pipeline system. The interstate pipeline companies transport the gas to consumers as far away as Connecticut, Michigan and California.

The fight over federal control of wellhead prices has been raging since 1946, when James H. Lee, assistant corporation counsel of Detroit, started the Phillips case on the way to the courts. The battle waxed hotter as demand for natural gas boomed and prices climbed the post-war era.

The interstate pipeline carriers (they've been subject to federal control of their rates right along) inevitably seek to pass any hike in field prices on to the ultimate consumer as an increased operating cost. In most instances, the wellhead cost is a mere fraction of the price paid by the end consumer. This is particularly true if the gas must be piped underground hundreds or even thousands of miles across the country. By the time distribution costs are figured in, and the pipeline company and the local utility have extracted their profits, the gas that cost the carrier 8 or 9 cents per thousand cubic feet at the oil fields may cost the northern householder $1.50.

Some of the oil companies are saying that if the Federal Power Commission cracks down on wellhead prices, they will stop selling the gas outside the states where it is produced (federal control applies only to gas moved across state lines). This, they say, will limit the supply reaching the big northern markets, and force consumer prices up.

The long-standing argument of the oil companies is that field prices of gas, like prices of crude oil, should be exempt from federal regulation because of the high cost and extreme financial risk involved in hunting for gas and oil.

Congress, say the oil companies, never intended the federal government to regulate wellhead prices.

The supreme court says Congress did have that intention when it passed the Natural Gas Act. Talk in oil circles right now is that efforts will be made in Congress to get a new law on the books specifically removing oil and gas producers from FPC jurisdiction.

Natural Gas Rate Decision Brings Debate

Supreme Court Rule Seen In Midwest As Bringing Price Cut

NEW YORK (AP)—A big question mark was raised this week over the 60 million American homes where natural gas, piped from producing fields many miles away, is used for heating or cooking.

Would a supreme court decision giving federal authorities added power to control natural gas prices show up in consumer gas bills?

Opinion was divided. State and municipal authorities from the big Midwest gas consuming areas said the ruling would have a tremendous impact on consumer gas rates, and save consumers money.

Some industry sources said the effect would be negligible.

Companies which produce the gas and sell it to the interstate pipelines said the court's action would eventually result in higher consumer prices.

Target of the high court's ruling in the much-discussed Phillips Petroleum Co. case was the so-called wellhead price of natural gas. That's the price the cross-country pipeline companies pay for the gas they buy in the major oil-producing states like Louisiana and Texas. The court said the Federal Power Commission (FPC) not only has the right to set these prices but an obligation to do so.

Like many other oil producing companies, Phillips sells a huge amount of natural gas, much of it obtained as a byproduct of the company's oil drilling operations. The gas is extracted from the company's wells and delivered to the big interstate carriers over a Phillips-owned "gathering" pipeline system. The interstate pipeline companies transport the gas to consumers as far away as Connecticut, Michigan and California.

The fight over federal control of wellhead prices has been raging since 1946, when James H. Lee, assistant corporation counsel of Detroit, started the Phillips case on the way to the courts. The battle waxed hotter as demand for natural gas boomed and prices climbed the post-war era.

The interstate pipeline carriers (they've been subject to federal control of their rates right along) inevitably seek to pass any hike in field prices on to the ultimate consumer as an increased operating cost. In most instances, the wellhead cost is a mere fraction of the price paid by the end consumer. This is particularly true if the gas must be piped underground hundreds or even thousands of miles across the country. By the time distribution costs are figured in, and the pipeline company and the local utility have extracted their profits, the gas that cost the carrier 8 or 9 cents per thousand cubic feet at the oil fields may cost the northern householder $1.50.

Some of the oil companies are saying that if the Federal Power Commission cracks down on wellhead prices, they will stop selling the gas outside the states where it is produced (federal control applies only to gas moved across state lines). This, they say, will limit the supply reaching the big northern markets, and force consumer prices up.

The long-standing argument of the oil companies is that field prices of gas, like prices of crude oil, should be exempt from federal regulation because of the high cost and extreme financial risk involved in hunting for gas and oil.

Congress, say the oil companies, never intended the federal government to regulate wellhead prices.

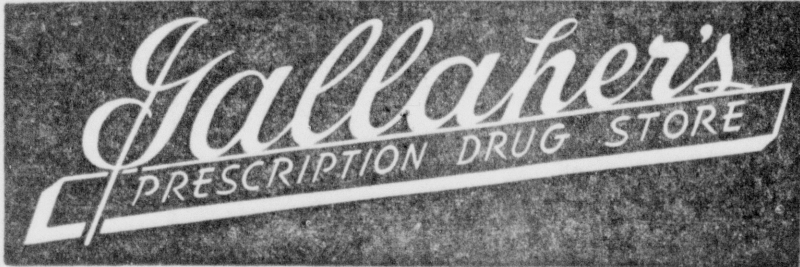

The supreme court says Congress did have that intention when it passed the Natural Gas Act. Talk in oil circles right now is that efforts will be made in Congress to get a new law on the books specifically removing oil and gas producers from FPC jurisdiction.

Weekly Food Review

Food stores across the nation will feature a wide variety of meat specials this weekend. The favorites: Prime ribs of beef, chuck roast and leg of lamb.

Stores featuring these items generally will trim prices by a few cents a pound, but here and there prices will be off as much as eight cents a pound from a week ago.

Other specials mentioned by a number of stores are smoked ham, stewing chicken, turkey and shrimp. One chain plans a special on ground beef in some of its eastern outlets—three pounds for a dollar.

One meat specialist commented that chuck roast is one of the most reasonably priced cuts these days. Another called veal a good buy but noted that it isn't popular in some sections of the country.

hens, it seems, and all of them are outdoing themselves in getting eggs laid.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture hopes you'll stock up on dairy products. Production of milk, cheese and butter is up sharply this year and the department has them. Produce men describe cucumbers and asparagus as moderately priced. Beans are reasonable, but the quality varies widely.

Cantaloupes are more plentiful and are being featured by a number of stores, but produce men say the price is still on the high side. Peach supplies are increasing, but here, too, you'll find prices a bit high.

Watermelons, on the other hand, are down sharply this week. You'll probably find them featured in your local market.

A footnote on the coffee situation: One large Midwest chain reports this week that its sales of instant coffee are up 31 per cent over a year ago. And, the company says, it's selling 25 per cent more tea than a year ago.

Sokolosky's These Days

The idea seems to prevail that all scholars are Democrats or Liberals or Communists. This has been encouraged by the contrary notion that all Republicans, all business men, and all anti-Communists are "anti-intellectuals."

Such simplifications are not only ridiculous but mischievous. The trained, disciplined minds of this country cannot be divided that way. If a court were taken, I am sure that as many, if not more, disciplined minds are employed in private industry as in our universities; that more research is being done in the natural sciences in private industry than in our universities; that as many professors are Republicans as Democrats; and that in our universities the anti-Communists will exceed the Communists by 1,000 to 1—a conservative guess, I am sure.

In a word, no political group in America has a monopoly on scholarship. Some do, however, make more noise than others.

The idea seems to prevail that all scholars are Democrats or Liberals or Communists. This has been encouraged by the contrary notion that all Republicans, all business men, and all anti-Communists are
"anti-intellectuals."

Such simplifications are not only ridiculous but mischievous. The trained, disciplined minds of this country cannot be divided that way.

If a court were taken, I am sure that as many, if not more, disciplined minds are employed in private industry as in our universities; that more research is being done in the natural sciences in private industry than in our universities; that as many professors are Republicans as Democrats; and that in our universities the anti-Communists will exceed the Communists by 1,000 to 1—a con-

Half Million East Berlin Youths Parade In Prelude To Big War

By HAL BOYLE
BERLIN (AP)—“All Germans around one table.”

That was one of many slogans for unity changed this week during a three-day Communist-sponsored rally of 500,000 German boys and girls in the debris of East Berlin.

Watching the slow torrent of youth swirl through the rubble left by the war, I had to suppress a wistful urge to seize a banner and start yelling an old battle cry of my own youth:

“Up the alley. Down the street. Central High School — can't be beat.”

It seemed to me that the paraders might just as well enjoy chanting that slogan instead of “Down with Western Imperialism” or “From Berlin to Rome, Yank Go Home.” It doesn't make much difference to the average teen-ager what he hollers—just so he knows he is hollering the same thing as the teen-ager next to him.

But the trouble with the slogans the teen-ager of Eastern Germany is being taught is that they don't lead merely to the black eyes and bruised muscles of juvenile gang fights. They are a prelude to bugle blowing and another great big grownup war.

This was my first look behind the fringe of the Iron Curtain in five years. I had the depressing illusion I was looking at half a million dirty-necked children, wandering parentless through a ruined world, crying words they did not really understand themselves.

But they were only puppets of a new power for murder. Somebody had bought the big red banners that hung from almost every broken building. Someone had put up loudspeakers along the streets that rang with martial airs. Someone had taught them to wear a blue shirt initialed FJD. Someone had taught them how to march in ordered rows.

The someone who had done these things was wise in the ways of corrupting the young. He was using exactly the same tactics Adolf Hitler had. And, just like Hitler, he wasn't going to all that trouble just to beat Central High School.

He even put on a tremendous night fireworks display to wind up the rally. I stood in a dense mass of these German boys and girls near Marx-Engels Platz that night, watching the great fiery showers overhead, hearing the crash of explosions, and wondering why anyone who had lived through Berlin's many nights of terror during the last war could enjoy this display. And as a matter of fact, there wasn't much cheering.

When the show was over, these children of yesterday went quietly back to their bivouac areas, or paused to make love in shattered doorways. At a Communist-sponsored youth rally the young people don't have to worry about snippy old prying chaperones. They are encouraged to like one another.

Here in Berlin this vast conclave of youth in the Eastern sector was taken by most as only another incident in a great battle that has gone on unceasingly since Hitler's fall—the continuous battle for the young German mind, an endless tug-of-war between East and West.

Nobody seems to feel that anybody is quite ready yet to blow the bugle, but it is widely taken for granted that in time the bugle will be blown. The present problem is to win the young mind to the future purpose.

But it must have made many besides myself tremendously sad, here in a vast capital still deep in the rust of a lost war, to see half a million boys and girls waving crimson banners and marching in step.

Berlin alone lost almost exactly that number of lives in the last conflict. Today it feels it is already the great beachhead of the cold war.

The Department of Agriculture estimates that a garden of three-quarters of an acre can supply all the vegetables and small fruits, both summer and winter, for a family of five.

Close Haircuts Replace Paddlings

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Parents have complained that crew haircuts are being administered at school as disciplinary measures, instead of paddlings.

Four trimmings have been reported. Juan R. Perez, 34, a truck driver, said yesterday that his son, Johnny, 14, came home from Hamilton Junior High School with a close cut, and reported that he was given his choice of the clippers or a paddling.

Robert Ware, a gym teacher, said he did the haircutting, with two other teachers and a vice principal as witnesses.

Big City Idle Lists Growing

CLEVELAND (AP)—A survey of the unemployment situation among 300 leading Cleveland area employers showed today an estimated 31,000 persons here are jobless—the most since August, 1950.

The unemployed in Greater Cincinnati number about 11,300 more than in 1953, the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation reports. The BUC said about 18,000 persons were out of work yesterday compared with 6,700 in May last year.

World Today

By James Marlow
Associated Press
News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Joseph N. Welch, 64-year-old special counsel for the Army, walked out of the Army-McCarthy hearing and wept. He had just found he was playing in a league too rough for him.

He had been a Boston trial lawyer 35 years. But even experience like that, it seemed now, had not prepared him for a Senate hearing like this or an encounter with Sen. McCarthy.

Only a moment before he had provided the emotional high moment of the hearing with a denunciation of McCarthy in a voice so choked he seemed like a man speaking through tears. He held the tears until he got outside the room.

McCarthy had just attacked him and a young lawyer, Frederick G. Fisher, who works for Welch's firm. The audience in the hearing room gave Welch unrestrained applause. What the television audience thought is unknown.

That was the emotional side of what happened. But looked at coldly, as an experienced trial lawyer like Welch himself might look at it if someone else had been sitting in his place, what was the practical side of this memorable moment?

The people who like McCarthy will probably remain undisturbed by Welch's grief and go on liking the senator. The people who dislike him will probably dislike him even more.

There was a central question which may have been obscured under the emotion: Did McCarthy have a purpose in his attack on Welch and Fisher? And did Welch fall for it?

Welch was cross-examining Roy M. Cohn, chief counsel of McCarthy's staff. Time and again in the past when Welch was pressing Cohn hard, McCarthy had come on to tackle Welch.

Each time it happened McCarthy diverted Welch's attention from Cohn. It was something Welch seldom did to McCarthy when the senator for days grilled Secretary of the Army Stevens although if he had, it would have given Stevens a rest.

It's a matter of opinion whether Welch was making much progress yesterday afternoon when he was digging into Cohn. But suddenly McCarthy moved in. Welch at once became so emotionally tangled with McCarthy he seemed to lose all thought of Cohn.

And when he had finished denouncing McCarthy he said he would not ask Cohn any more questions, that the Senate committee could call the next witness. This was McCarthy.

Welch had not drawn any startling disclosures from Cohn. But so long as he had him pinned in the witness chair, there was always the chance he might touch a soft spot. If McCarthy's attack was intended to get Welch off Cohn's back, he succeeded.

McCarthy himself is an expert hand at keeping a witness pinned to the chair. He did this to Stevens and to Army Counselor John G. Adams for days. His pressure paid off.

Adams disclosed for the first time high officials in the Eisenhower administration had advised the Army in its dealings with McCarthy. McCarthy made quick capital of it and kept the hearing's attention focused on this episode for a week.

The McCarthy attack went this way: he accused Welch of trying to "foist" off on the Senate subcommittee conducting the hearings a former member of the National Lawyers Guild — Fisher.

Welch said he did not find out until after he brought Fisher down here to help him in this case that the young man had been a member of the guild at Harvard Law School and a few months thereafter. Then, Welch said, he sent Fisher back to Boston so this matter would not get dragged into the hearing.

The Lawyers Guild has denied charges it's a Communist front, first officially made by the House

Pastor Shortage Reasons Outlined

LAKEVILLE (AP) — Seminary enrollment of young men studying for the ministry is holding up well, but too many of the graduates go into other fields instead of the pulpit a Methodist leader reports.

That is making a shortage of pastors, Dr. Robert Kennedy, retiring Dayton district superintendent, told the Ohio Conference of Methodists.

He said that still another factor in the shortage was the public's "unreasonable and unreasonable prejudice against ministers who are over 60 years of age." This, he said, tends to make pastors retire when they could spend additional effective years in the pulpit.

Hungry Tabby Sets Off Alarms

CLEVELAND (AP) — The cat that came to dinner and stayed to upset burglar alarms at the Lewis Machinery Co. got the gate.

Animal Protective League workers hauled off the orange colored tomcat yesterday after Tabby on three occasions summoned irate police by wandering past electric "eyes" during the night.

The cat first turned up two weeks ago, begging food from workers at lunchtime. After that he became a regular pest who didn't know when to go home.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Joseph N. Welch, 64-year-old special counsel for the Army, walked out of the Army-McCarthy hearing and wept. He had just found he was playing in a league too rough for him.

He had been a Boston trial lawyer 35 years. But even experience like that, it seemed now, had not prepared him for a Senate hearing like this or an encounter with Sen. McCarthy.

Only a moment before he had provided the emotional high moment of the hearing with a denunciation of McCarthy in a voice so choked he seemed like a man speaking through tears. He held the tears until he got outside the room.

McCarthy had just attacked him and a young lawyer, Frederick G. Fisher, who works for Welch's firm. The audience in the hearing room gave Welch unrestrained applause. What the television audience thought is unknown.

That was the emotional side of what happened. But looked at coldly, as an experienced trial lawyer like Welch himself might look at it if someone else had been sitting in his place, what was the practical side of this memorable moment?

The people who like McCarthy will probably remain undisturbed by Welch's grief and go on liking the senator. The people who dislike him will probably dislike him even more.

There was a central question which may have been obscured under the emotion: Did McCarthy have a purpose in his attack on Welch and Fisher? And did Welch fall for it?

Welch was cross-examining Roy M. Cohn, chief counsel of McCarthy's staff. Time and again in the past when Welch was pressing Cohn hard, McCarthy had come in to tackle Welch.

Each time it happened McCarthy diverted Welch's attention from Cohn. It was something Welch seldom did to McCarthy when the senator for days grilled Secretary of the Army Stevens although if he had, it would have given Stevens a rest.

It's a matter of opinion whether Welch was making much progress yesterday afternoon when he was digging into Cohn. But suddenly McCarthy moved in. Welch at once became so emotionally tangled with McCarthy he seemed to lose all thought of Cohn.

And when he had finished denouncing McCarthy he said he would not ask Cohn any more questions, that the Senate committee could call the next witness. This was McCarthy.

Welch had not drawn any startling disclosures from Cohn. But so long as he had him pinned in the witness chair, there was always the chance he might touch a soft spot. If McCarthy's attack was intended to get Welch off Cohn's back, he succeeded.

McCarthy himself is an expert hand at keeping a witness pinned to the chair. He did this to Stevens and to Army Counselor John G. Adams for days. His pressure paid off.

Adams disclosed for the first time high officials in the Eisenhower administration had advised the Army in its dealings with McCarthy. McCarthy made quick capital of it and kept the hearing's attention focused on this episode for a week.

The McCarthy attack went this way: he accused Welch of trying to "foist" off on the Senate subcommittee conducting the hearings a former member of the National Lawyers Guild — Fisher.

Welch said he did not find out until after he brought Fisher down here to help him in this case that the young man had been a member of the guild at Harvard Law School and a few months thereafter. Then, Welch said, he sent Fisher back to Boston so this matter would not get dragged into the hearing.

The Lawyers Guild has denied charges it's a Communist front, first officially made by the House

Un-American Activities Committee in September 1950. Welch's firm has said Fisher resigned from the guild in early 1950.

Hungry Tabby Sets Off Alarms

CLEVELAND (AP) — The cat that came to dinner and stayed to upset burglar alarms at the Lewis Machinery Co. got the gate.

Animal Protective League workers hauled off the orange colored tomcat yesterday after Tabby on three occasions summoned irate police by wandering past electric "eyes" during the night.

The cat first turned up two weeks ago, begging food from workers at lunchtime. After that he became a regular pest who didn't know when to go home.

Pastor Shortage Reasons Outlined

LAKESIDE (AP) — Seminary enrollment of young men studying for the ministry is holding up well, but too many of the graduates go into other fields instead of the pulpit a Methodist leader reports.

That is making a shortage of pastors, Dr. Robert Kennedy, retiring Dayton district superintendent, told the Ohio Conference of Methodists.

He said that still another factor in the shortage was the public's "unreasoned and unreasonable prejudice against ministers who are over 60 years of age." This, he said, tends to make pastors retire when they could spend additional effective years in the pulpit.

No Vacation This Summer For Candidates

Congress Seat Seekers In For Long, Rough Haul Until November

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio congressional candidates can forget about a vacation from politics this summer.

The word apparently has gone out to both Democrats and Republicans against any letdown in the drive to capture control of Congress in the November election.

Republicans hold a slim numerical edge in the House of Representatives, but show a minus-one count in the Senate where Democrats have declined to upset GOP organizational control this session.

One of Ohio's best known legislative lobbyists gave this opinion of the importance attached by President Eisenhower's administration to the struggle for congressional control:

"If the Democrats capture Congress this fall you can bet that Ike won't be a candidate for re-election."

Some Ohio Democrats have expressed belief that they can win Congress and are laying plans accordingly. But Republicans who brush the claims aside apparently aren't taking chances.

Ray C. Bliss, Ohio Republican chairman and national committee man, has called in party members of Congress from Ohio for a campaign strategy dinner tonight in Washington. Sen. John W. Bricker of Ohio plans to attend.

Sixteen of Ohio's 23 - member delegation in the House are Republicans. All but two of them are up for re-election to two-year terms next November.

The two are Rep. Alvin F. Weichel of Sandusky in the 13th District, who dropped out of competition because of ill health, and Rep. George H. Bender of Cleveland in the 23rd District.

Bender is the GOP nominee for the last two years of the late Sen. Robert A. Taft's six-year term. His November opponent is Democrat ocrat Thomas A. Burke, former Cleveland mayor appointed by Gov. Frank J. Lausche to Taft's seat until election of a successor. The appointment gave Republicans their minus - one count in the Senate.

Burke will be a featured speaker in Columbus tomorrow night at a $50 - a - plate Democratic banquet staged to raise campaign funds.

Although state Democratic headquarters lacked a late count on probable guests, some state employees reported receiving unrequested tickets by mail for purchase. A headquarters spokesman recalled that about 1,000 attended a similar banquet two years ago.

Guests of honor will be Stephen A. Mitchell, National Democratic chairman, Capt. Victor Harding, Congressional campaign head, and Gov. Lausche, candidate for a fifth term.

Eugene H. Hanhart of Dover, Democratic state chairman, has called a strategy session tomorrow noon for party congressional candidates with Mitchell and Harding.

GE Beats Jackson Twp., 3-1, In County League Opener

McConnell And Smith Tangle In Hurling Duel; Wilson Outfit Meets Pickaway Thursday At 5:30

Ron Bennington's solid belt into right-center eluded capture in the last of the fifth inning Wednesday night and gave General Electric a 3 to 1 victory over Jackson Township. The game at Ted Lewis Park rang the opening bell on the 1954 County Baseball League.

The contest halted by Umpire Red Courtney in the sixth because of darkness, was a hurling tussle between Smith for Jackson and Jim McConnell for Stillman, Morrison's outfit. The two right-handers battled with timely support for three innings without a tally. Both scored once in the fourth, and then two GE markers in the fifth settled things for the opening regular-play hardball game of the season.

Jackson had to be satisfied with two hits off McConnell. GE reached Smith for only one more than that, but one of the three was a bunt that Bob Callihan beat out in the game-deciding fifth. It helped swing the deal.

The closely fought game came as consolation for the small group of fans who turned out for the match and feared for a time it was never going to get under way. Dick Boyd, "kid baseball" director, has warned that special efforts will have to be made to start County League games at 5:30 p. m. And Wednesday night's fray illustrated how this detail may give team managers extra worries before the season is completed.

AT THE regular starting time, the Jackson club reported it lacked a full lineup. After a long discussion, it appeared the township nine would have to yield the contest, but a satisfactory arrangement was reached with Hutchinson in right-field for Jackson.

The game was about one-half hour late in starting, and visibility was bad before it was finally out short. The evening gloom appeared to be an extra handicap when the Jackson outfield tried to make a putout on Bennington's fly in the fateful fifth.

There was little to choose between the two teams as they moved through the first three frames. Bennington singled to right in the GE half of the opening stanza after two were out, but was left lonely when McConnell fanned. In the top of the same inning, Gilmore singled after Martindale had walked with only one down. However, Galloway was heaved out, Bennington to Hill, and Smith was called out on strikes.

Jackson registered the evening's first run in the top of the fourth. After Gilmore fanned Galloway walked and Smith singled to right. Both boys advanced on a low throw to second base. And when Easter walked, the sacks were full. Mougher ran for Easter and replaced him in the township lineup.

Swaney coaxed a walk, forcing in Galloway with the Jackson run. Smith was out trying to steal his way home, and Hatfield was called out on strikes.

In the bottom of the fourth, the Morrison crew made it one-all after Hosler was thrown out. Bennington walked and chiseled his way to second and third. And that's where he was when McConnell blasted a single past short.

JACKSON WEIT out in order to open the fifth. Martin, in for Hutchinson, fanned. Young's looper was gathered in by Bennington in deep short. And Martindale was out on strikes.

Opening the GE half, Frazier was safe on error. Hartinger, replacing Conrad, was out on strikes. But Bob Callihan's dazzer bunt rolled toward third in a spot where nobody could do much about it, putting men on first and third. It was the third and final hit for the winners. Callihan moved down to second, and Hosler fanned for the second out. Then Bennington lifted his decisive fly into right and two runs came in.

In the top of the final sixth, Gilmore walked but went out stealing. Galloway was called out on strikes. And Frazier picked up Smith's roller and tossed him into retirement.

Jackson's boys turned out for the

GE Beats Jackson Twp., 3-1, In County League Opener

McConnell And Smith Tangle In Hurling Duel; Wilson Outfit Meets Pickaway Thursday At 5:30

Ron Bennington's solid belt into right-center eluded capture in the last of the fifth inning Wednesday night and gave General Electric a 3 to 1 victory over Jackson Township. The game at Ted Lewis Park rang the opening bell on the 1954 County Baseball League.

The contest halted by Umpire Red Courtney in the sixth because of darkness, was a hurling tussle between Smith for Jackson and Jim McConnell for Stillman. Morrison's outfit, the two right-handers battled with timely support for three innings without a tally. Both scored once in the fourth, and then two GE markers in the fifth settled things for the opening regular-play hardball game of the season.

Jackson had to be satisfied with two hits off McConnell. GE reached Smith for only one more than that, but one of the three was a bunt that Bob Callihan beat out in the game-deciding fifth. It helped swing the deal.

The closely fought game came as consolation for the small group of fans who turned out for the match and feared for a time it was never going to get under way. Dick Boyd, "kid baseball" director, has warned that special efforts will have to be made to start County League games at 5:30 p. m. And Wednesday night's fray illustrated how this detail may give team managers extra worries before the season is completed.

AT THE regular starting time, the Jackson club reported it lacked a full lineup. After a long discussion, it appeared the township nine would have to yield the contest, but a satisfactory arrangement was reached with Hutchinson in right-field for Jackson.

The game was about one-half hour late in starting, and visibility was bad before it was finally cut short. The evening gloom appeared to be an extra handicap when the Jackson outfield tried to make a putout on Bennington's fly in the fateful fifth.

There was little to choose between the two teams as they moved through the first three frames. Bennington singled to right in the GE half of the opening stanza after two were out, but was left lonely when McConnell fanned. In the top of the same inning, Gilmore singled after Martindale had walked with only one down. However, Galloway was heaved out, Bennington to Hill, and Smith was called out on strikes.

Jackson registered the evening's first run in the top of the fourth. After Gilmore fanned Galloway walked and Smith singled to right. Both boys advanced on a low throw to second base. And when Easter walked, the sacks were full. Mougher ran for Easter and replaced him in the township lineup.

Swaney coaxed a walk, forcing in Galloway with the Jackson run. Smith was out trying to steal his way home, and Hatfield was called out on strikes.

In the bottom of the fourth, the Morrison crew made it one-all after Hosler was thrown out. Bennington walked and chiseled his way to second and third. And that's where he was when McConnell blasted a single past short.

JACKSON WENT out in order to open the fifth. Martin, in for Hutchinson, fanned. Young's looper was gathered in by Bennington in deep short. And Martindale was out on strikes.

Opening the GE half, Frazier was safe on error. Hartinger, replacing Conrad, was out on strikes. But Bob Callihan's dazzer bunt rolled toward third in a spot where nobody could do much about it, putting men on first and third. It was the third and final hit for the winners. Callihan moved down to second, and Hosler fanned for the second out. Then Bennington lifted his decisive fly into right and two runs came in.

In the top of the final sixth, Gilmore walked but went out stealing. Galloway was called out on strikes. And Frazier picked up Smith's roller and tossed him into retirement.

A rugged contest looms Thursday evening at the park when two more of the County League teams go into action. Wilson Fords being slated to tangle with Pickaway Township. The game is set for 5:30 p. m.

Starting batting orders for Wednesday night's game:

General Electric — Callihan, lf; Hosler, 3b; Bennington, ss; McConnell, p; Hill, 1b; Phifer, cf; Eshelman, c; Frazier, 2b; Salyers, rf. Conrad went in for Salyers, and Hartinger for Conrad.

Jackson — Young, lf; Martindale, 2b; Gilmore, 3b; Galloway, c; Smith, p; Easter, ss; Swaney, 1b; Hatfield, cf; Hutchinson, rf. Mougher went in for Easter, and Martin for Hutchinson.

FOUL TIPS

The trouble Jackson had in meeting that 5:30 starting time should serve as a warning for the other team managers. It's a tough time to have the full crews on hand, but league officials point out it's necessary to give late games a fair chance at the field—and the two competing teams a fair break on the daylight.

Fans in the bleachers figure Bennington's fly to right in the fifth must have been plenty hard to see. If he hadn't been trying to get a full game on the books, Umpire Red Courtney could have halted it because of darkness in the fourth.

Easter was a strong man for the township team at shortstop, but wasn't able to stay for the full game. He looked good on Hill's roller in the second, and in gathering in Callihan's high pop in the third.

Warren Grover, cagey pilot for the Wilsons, was on hand early just to watch the GE-Jackson tangle. Warren had his batting order all ready for the hot game Thursday night with Pickaway. Jack Irwin is the Pickaway manager.

Jackson's boys turned out for the

Kilgore Surprises With Durando TKO

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Billy Kilgore's surprise technical knock-out over Ernie Durando here last night may have earned him a non-title bout with middleweight champion Bobo Olson.

Kilgore, a 2-1 underdog, gave Durando, the hard-punching Bayonne, N. J., middleweight a decisive beating from start to finish. A Miami Beach Boxing Commission doctor refused to allow Durando to come out for the tenth.

There were four separate lacerations around Durando's left eye and 10 stitches were needed to close them. Two more stitches were taken in a cut over the right eye.

A record $27,827,000,000 was spent by American business in 1953.

Best Fishing In Ohio Said In Lake Erie

COLUMBUS (AP)—The state division of wildlife says that by far the best fishing spot in Ohio this week has been Lake Erie where white bass have been caught by the thousands.

The outlook by sections:

Northwestern: Most streams and lakes clear and normal, fishing fair, no outstanding catches reported. Oxbow Lake, Defiance County, continues to produce good large mouth and rock bass catches. Lake St. Marys is clear and low with crappies and catfish biting.

East Central and Southeastern: Lake fishing predominates, but some catches reported from Hocking, Willis Creek and Muskingum rivers. Bass, bluegills and crappies biting well in Atwood, Lessville, Piedmont, Seneca and Burr Oak lakes.

Central and Southern: Most streams roily, and fishing not too good. Buckeye, Delaware and Rocky Fork lakes in fair to good condition, and some bass, bluegills and crappies being taken.

Southwest: Lakes and streams in good condition, with best catches in lakes such as Grant, Kiser, Cowan, Indian and Loricam. Stream fishing generally poor, but some trout being caught in Mad River and its tributaries.

NASCAR, National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing, Inc., world's largest racing association, with headquarters at Daytona Beach, Fla. has signed a sanction agreement with Circle Enterprises, Inc., operators of the Washington C. H. Speedway, for stock car racing to be held there every Saturday night.

Washington C. H. Speedway, formerly operating under open competition rules will now operate under NASCAR sportsman class rules, with the races still being held at the usual time with time trials at 7:15 p. m. and the first race at 8:30 p. m.

Most all the NASCAR drivers from this area have driven on the Washington C. H. track at one time or another and this new arrangement will give the fans a chance to see them all together at one time.

Bob Keegan Now Leading Pitcher In AL

Chisox Pilot Tells Ace To Get His Arm Sore Early Instead Of June

After being mired in the minors for seven years with an aching arm, pitcher Bob Keegan leads the American League in victories to date because Manager Paul Richards told him to get his arm sore in January instead of June.

The big right-hander from Rochester, N. Y., is the brightest new star of the first-place Chicago White Sox. He won his ninth game last night, 9-4 over Philadelphia. He's been beaten only once.

Keegan, a sinker ball artist, is hitting his prime just two months shy of his 33rd birthday and in his second season in the majors.

The White Sox grabbed him out of the International League, where he won 20 and lost 11 for Syracuse in 1951. He was available because the New York Yankees, who had owned him for six minor league seasons, had given up on his sore arm.

Sure enough, in his first season with the White Sox, Keegan came up with a sore arm last spring and had to go on the disabled list for 30 days. He finished strong, however, winning seven and losing five.

The past winter Richards ordered him to go to work in the gym. Just as he expected, the pitcher developed his old ache. But the advance schedule was timed perfectly and Keegan was fit and ready when the season opened.

He has started 11 games, finished nine of them and has a fine earned-run average of 2.27 in 99 innings. He's beaten every team in the league except the Yankees at least once and he holds three decisions over Boston. So far he hasn't faced the Yankees although he's sure to get a chance this weekend when the White Sox invade New York for four games.

The triumph in Philadelphia, which included home runs by Johnny Groth, Chico Carrasquel and Sherm Lollar, enabled Chicago to hold its one-game lead over the Cleveland Indians, who shaded Washington 1-0. New York defeated Detroit 5-1. Boston beat Baltimore 7-6.

The surprising New York Giants drove into a tie with Brooklyn for first place in the National League as Johnny Antonelli registered his second straight shutout in beating Milwaukee 4-0 while St. Louis tripped Brooklyn 3-0. Philadelphia won a pair from Chicago 4-0 and 14-6. Cincinnati edged Pittsburgh 4-3 on four home runs.

The Giants jumped off to a 1-0 lead against Warren Spahn in the first inning, added a second tally on Antonelli's run-scoring single in the eighth and two more on three singles and a sacrifice fly in the ninth.

The Dodgers folded before the southpaw slants of Harvey Haddix, who joined Keegan as the only nine-game winners in the majors. He gave up only three hits, all singles, after holding the Dodgers hitless through the first five innings.

The Cubs got 10 hits off Murry Dickson but failed to convert them into a single run in their first game loss to Philadelphia. In the nightcap the Phillies won a battle of home runs. Willie Jones hit a pair and Bobby Morgan, Stan Lopata and Granny Hamner got one apiece. Joe Garagiola and Bill Serena, both pinch hitters, homered for Chicago.

The long ball made all the difference in Cincinnati too. After Pittsburgh jumped on Joe Nuxhall for three runs in the first, the Red-legs fought back with bases-empty homers. Nuxhall got one in the third; Gus Bell, one in the sixth and one in the eighth; and Jim Greengrass, one in the ninth.

Bob Porterfield of the Senators had a no-hitter working until Vic Wertz singled with one out in the seventh and he gave up only four hits all evening but Cleveland got the one run of the game. Wertz moved around to score on a single by Dave Philley and an error by Eddie Yost.

Boston came from behind in the seventh against Baltimore and won in the ninth on a triple by Sammy White after Jackie Jensen had singled. The victory went to Frank Sullivan, the 6-7 Red Sox rookie, who was the fourth Boston pitcher. A three-run double by Yogi Berra and Eddie Robinson's first home run since joining the Yankees led to Detroit's defeat. Tom Morgan, who replaced Whitey Ford after two innings, picked up his fourth straight victory. Ford developed a blister.

Vic Seixas of Philadelphia and Tony Trabert of Cincinnati split the Priory lawn tennis singles championships as rain and cold winds cancelled the finals in a pre-Wimbledon tuneup yesterday.

Lloyd Mangrum of Niles, Ill., one of the veteran professionals along golf's big-time money trail, was regarded as one of the favorites in the second annual $15,000 Virginia Beach Open, which began today.

Sportsmen who are interested in making recommendations concerning Ohio's fish and game regulations are being urged by Ohio Wildlife officials to attend the forthcoming district fish and game hearings and the state-wide hearing to follow later.

For the past few years, the fish and game hearings have been held separately, the fish hearings in the winter, preceding the fishing season and the game hearing in the

Greengrass Finds Work Pays Dividend

CINCINNATI (AP) — Jim Greengrass is one who believes that old saying that "hard work never hurt anyone."

Greengrass, the Cincinnati Redlegs' "sophomore" left fielder, was benched a few days ago because of a protracted hitting slump. He got back into the lineup last night and the first two times he faced pitcher Max Surkont of the Pittsburgh Pirates it looked like more of the same slump.

His record stood at no hits in his last 26 times at bat when he came up in the ninth with the score tied at 3-3. He promptly sent a Surkont pitch sailing over the left center-field fence to give the Reds a 4-3 victory.

The happy Greengrass said after the game that "it was the greatest feeling in the world." Then he rubbed his calloused hands and said:

"I've been working 10 to 12 hours since I've been out of the lineup on hitting practice. But hard work never hurt anyone."

Greengrass had to share the night's honors, however, with center fielder Gus Bell and pitcher Joe Nuxhall.

Bell hit two home runs, the last one tying the score in the eighth, and he made a great catch in the seventh off Dick Cole and turned it into a double play to stifle a Pittsburgh threat.

Nuxhall, making his first pitching start of the season, hit the Reds' first home run and turned in a fine pitching job after a bases-loaded error by Roy McMillan had helped the Pirates to a 3-0 lead in the first inning.

Nuxhall allowed the Pirates 11 hits, but six of them came in the first three innings. He didn't walk a man.

Tribe Wins Contest On Four Hits

WASHINGTON (AP)—If Cleveland's Indians can win ball games when they get only four hits, they may not miss batting stars Al Rosen and Bob Avila so much.

But, to do it, they'll need the kind of pitching Mike Garcia gave them last night in beating Washington's Nationals, 1-0.

Garcia, winning his seventh against four losses, gave up only five singles. Four of them were infield scratches, three of those in the seventh inning.

The Big Bear had to be good against Bob Porterfield, who held the Tribe hitless until the seventh when Vic Wertz singled with one out. Wertz, batting fourth and playing his first major league game as a first baseman, supplanted Bill Glynn as Rosen's substitute. Dave Philley singled Wertz to third and Vic came home on Rudy Regalado's grounder, which Eddie Yost bobbled too long to heave to the plate in time.

Porterfield struck out three to Garcia's four and gave two walks to Garcia's three. The Indians threatened the Nats' ace right-hander just one other time. In the eighth, with two out and Sam Dente on first by an infield single, Larry Doby hit the game's only extra base blow—a double to center—but Dente stopped at third and Wertz fanned to leave both runners stranded.

Only twice did Garcia allow runners to pass second base.

The victory still left Cleveland a game behind the Chicago Sox.

Giel Gets Lush Pact, Convertible

MILWAUKEE (AP) — How does a college kid react to an assured income of $60,000 for the next three years?

If he's Paul Giel, the Minnesota football star whose signing to pitch professional baseball for the New York Giants at those terms was announced here yesterday, he's more impressed with a gift auto.

"Boy, you ought to see it," he told newsmen at a press conference attended by such high brass of the Giants' organization as President Horace Stoneham. "They gave it to me up at Minneapolis the other night. As I surprised! It's a cream-colored, hard-top convertible, a 1954 model."

Kilgore Surprises With Durando TKO

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Billy Kilgore's surprise technical knock-out over Ernie Durando here last night may have earned him a non-title bout with middleweight champion Bobo Olson.

Kilgore, a 2-1 underdog, gave Durando, the hard-punching Bayonne, N. J., middleweight a decisive beating from start to finish. A Miami Beach Boxing Commission doctor refused to allow Durando to come out for the tenth.

There were four separate lacerations around Durando's left eye and 10 stitches were needed to close them. Two more stitches were taken in a cut over the right eye.

A record $27,827,000,000 was spent by American business in 1953.

Best Fishing In Ohio Said In Lake Erie

COLUMBUS (AP)—The state division of wildlife says that by far the best fishing spot in Ohio this week has been Lake Erie where white bass have been caught by the thousands.

The outlook by sections:
Northwestern: Most streams and lakes clear and normal, fishing fair, no outstanding catches reported. Oxbow Lake, Defiance County, continues to produce good large mouth and rock bass catches. Lake St. Marys is clear and low with crappies and catfish biting.

East Central and Southeastern: Lake fishing predominates, but some catches reported from Hocking, Wills Creek and Muskingum rivers. Bass, bluegills and crappies biting well in Atwood, Lessville, Piedmont, Seneca and Burr Oak lakes.

Central and Southern: Most streams roly, and fishing not too good. Buckeye, Delaware and Rocky Fork lakes in fair to good condition, and some bass, bluegills and crappies being taken.

Southwest: Lakes and streams in lakes such as Grant, Kiser, Cowan, Indian and Loramie. Stream fishing generally poor, but some trout being caught in Mad River and its tributaries.

NASCAR, National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing, Inc., world's largest racing association, with headquarters at Daytona Beach, Fla. has signed a sanction agreement with Circle Enterprises, Inc., operators of the Washington C. H. Speedway, for stock car racing to be held there every Saturday night.

Washington C. H. Speedway, formerly operating under open competition rules will now operate under NASCAR sportsman class rules, with the races still being held at the usual time with time trials at 7:15 p. m. and the first race at 8:30 p. m.

Most all the NASCAR drivers from this area have driven on the Washington C. H. track at one time or another and this new arrangement will give the fans a chance to see them all together at one time.

Bob Keegan Now Leading Pitcher In AL

Chisox Pilot Tells Ace To Get His Arm Sore Early Instead Of June

After being mired in the minors for seven years with an aching arm, pitcher Bob Keegan leads the American League in victories today because Manager Paul Richards told him to get his arm sore in January instead of June.

The big right-hander from Rochester, N. Y., is the brightest new star of the first-place Chicago White Sox. He won his ninth game last night, 9-4 over Philadelphia. He's been beaten only once.

Keegan, a sinker ball artist, is hitting his prime just two months shy of his 33rd birthday and in his second season in the majors.

The White Sox grabbed him out of the International League, where he won 20 and lost 11 for Syracuse in 1951. He was available because the New York Yankees, who had owned him for six minor league seasons, had given up on his sore arm.

Sure enough, in his first season with the White Sox, Keegan came up with a sore arm last spring and had to go on the disabled list for 30 days. He finished strong, however, winning seven and losing five.

The past winter Richards ordered him to go to work in the gym. Just as he expected, the pitcher developed his old ache. But the advanced schedule was timed perfectly and Keegan was fit and ready when the season opened.

He has started 11 games, finished nine of them and has a fine earned run average of 2.27 in 99 innings. He's beaten every team in the league except the Yankees at least once and he holds three decisions over Boston. So far he hasn't faced the Yankees although he's sure to get a chance this weekend when the White Sox invade New York for four games.

The triumph in Philadelphia, which included home runs by Johnny Groth, Chico Carrasquel and Sherm Lollar, enabled Chicago to hold its one-game lead over the Cleveland Indians, who shaded Washington 1-0. New York defeated Detroit 5-1. Boston beat Baltimore 7-6.

The surprising New York Giants drove into a tie with Brooklyn for first place in the National League as Johnny Antonelli registered his second straight shutout in beating Milwaukee 4-0 while St. Louis tripped Brooklyn 3-0. Philadelphia won a pair from Chicago 4-0 and 14-6. Cincinnati edged Pittsburgh 4-3 on four home runs.

The Giants jumped off to a 1-0 lead against Warren Spahn in the first inning, added a second tally on Antonelli's run-scoring single in the eighth and two more on three singles and a sacrifice fly in the ninth.

The Dodgers folded before the southpaw slants of Harvey Haddix, who joined Keegan as the only nine-game winners in the majors. He gave up only three hits, all singles, after holding the Dodgers hitless through the first five innings.

The Cubs got 10 hits off Murry Dickson but failed to convert them into a single run in their first game loss to Philadelphia. In the nightcap the Phillies won a battle of home runs, Willie Jones hit a pair and Bobby Morgan, Stan Lopata and Granny Hamner got one apiece. Joe Garagiola and Bill Serena, both pinch hitters, homered for Chicago.

The long ball made all the difference in Cincinnati too. After Pittsburgh jumped on Joe Nuxhall for three runs in the first, the Red-legs fought back with bases-empty homers. Nuxhall got one in the third; Gus Bell, one in the sixth and one in the eighth; and Jim Greengrass, one in the ninth.

Bob Porterfield of the Senators had a no-hitter working until Vic Wertz singled with one out in the seventh and he gave up only four hits all evening but Cleveland got the one run of the game. Wertz moved around to score on a single by Dave Philley and an error by Eddie Yost.

Boston came from behind in the seventh against Baltimore and won in the ninth on a triple by Sammy White after Jackie Jensen had singled. The victory went to Frank Sullivan, the 6-7 Red Sox rookie, who was the fourth Boston pitcher.

A three-run double by Yogi Berra and Eddie Robinson's first home run since joining the Yankees led to Detroit's defeat. Tom Morgan, who replaced Whitey Ford after four innings, picked up his fourth straight victory. Ford developed a blister.

Since the advent of liberalized fishing in Ohio there have been few recommended changes in the fishing regulations. It was felt combined hearings would mean a considerable saving in both time and money for the farmer and sportsmen representatives who are duly elected to bring the recommendations of the county and district hearings before the Wildlife Council at the State Fish and Game Hearing.

Following are the dates of the district fish and game hearings:

Wildlife District 2, June 15 at Wildlife Headquarters, Findlay; Wildlife District 3, June 20 at Wildlife Headquarters, Akron; Wildlife District 4, June 17, at Berwick Hotel, Cambridge; Wildlife District 5, June 16 at Wildlife Headquarters, Chillicothe; Wildlife District 6, June 17 at Wildlife Headquarters, Xenia. State hearing, July 22, State Office Building, Columbus, Ohio.

Vic Seixas of Philadelphia and Tony Trabert of Cincinnati split the Priory lawn tennis singles championships as rain and cold winds cancelled the finals in a pre-Wimbledon tuneup yesterday.

Lloyd Mangrum of Niles, Ill., one of the veteran professionals along golf's big-time money trail, was regarded as one of the favorites in the second annual $15,000 Virginia Beach Open, which began today.

Greengrass Finds Work Pays Dividend

CINCINNATI (AP)—Jim Greengrass is one who believes that old saying that "hard work never hurt anyone."

Greengrass, the Cincinnati Redlegs' "sophomore" left fielder, was benched a few days ago because of a protracted hitting slump. He got back into the lineup last night and the first two times he faced pitcher Max Surkont of the Pittsburgh Pirates it looked like more of the same slump.

His record stood at no hits in his last 26 times at bat when he came up in the ninth with the score tied at 3-3. He promptly sent a Surkont pitch sailing over the left centerfield fence to give the Reds a 4-3 victory.

The happy Greengrass said after the game that "it was the greatest feeling in the world." Then he rubbed his calloused hands and said:

"I've been working 10 to 12 hours since I've been out of the lineup on hitting practice. But hard work never hurt anyone."

Greengrass had to share the night's honors, however, with center fielder Gus Bell and pitcher Joe Nuxhall.

Bell hit two home runs, the last one tying the score in the eighth, and he made a great catch in the seventh off Dick Cole and turned it into a double play to stifle a Pittsburgh threat.

Nuxhall, making his first pitching start of the season, hit the Reds' first home run and turned in a fine pitching job after a bases-loaded error by Roy McMillan had helped the Pirates to a 3-0 lead in the first inning.

Nuxhall allowed the Pirates 11 hits, but six of them came in the first three innings. He didn't walk a man.

Tribe Wins Contest On Four Hits

WASHINGTON (AP)—If Cleveland's Indians can win ball games when they get only four hits, they may not miss batting stars Al Rosen and Bob Avila so much.

But, to do it, they'll need the kind of pitching Mike Garcia gave them last night in beating Washington's Nationals, 1-0.

Garcia, winning his seventh against four losses, gave up only five singles. Four of them were infield scratches, three of those in the seventh inning.

The Big Bear had to be good against Bob Porterfield, who held the Tribe hitless until the seventh when Vic Wertz singled with one out. Wertz, batting fourth and playing his first major league game as a first baseman, supplanted Bill Glynn as Rosen's substitute. Dave Philyn singled Wertz to third and Vic came home on Rudy Regalado's grounder, which Eddie Yost bobbled too long to heave to the plate in time.

Porterfield struck out three to Garcia's four and gave two walks to Garcia's three. The Indians threatened the Nats' ace right-hander just one other time. In the eighth, with two out and Sam Dente on first by an infield single, Larry Doby hit the game's only extra base blow—a double to center—but Dente stopped at third and Wertz stranded.

Only twice did Garcia allow runners to pass second base.

The victory still left Cleveland a game behind the Chicago Sox.

Giel Gets Lush Pact, Convertible

MILWAUKEE (AP)—How does a college kid react to an assured income of $60,000 for the next three years?

If he's Paul Giel, the Minnesota football star whose signing to pitch professional baseball for the New York Giants at those terms was announced here yesterday, he's more impressed with a gift auto.

"Boy, you ought to see it," he told newsmen at a press conference attended by such high brass of the Giants' organization as President Horace Stoneham. "They gave it to me up at Minneapolis the other night, as I surprised! It's a cream-colored, hard-top convertible, a 1954 model."

Mystery Deaths Under New Probe

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Riley Hospital doctors are making new tests in the mystery deaths of two-year-old twin girls, after reporting a high concentration of salicylates in their blood.

The doctors sought to determine the exact type of the salicylate. The children, Rita Lynn and Reta Louise Hetzel, died Monday night. The commonest source of a salicylate is aspirin, but the babies' father, Ralph Hetzel, Connorsville industrial engineer, said they could not have gotten any aspirin Saturday or Sunday. They became ill Sunday.

Funeral services for the little girls will be Friday afternoon at Greenville, Ohio, the Hetzel's former home.

Bovine Don Juan Acquitted Of Heifer Misconduct

NAPA, Calif. (AP)—Prince Domino III, a blue-blooded bull, stood acquitted today of charges of willful misconduct in his affairs with 34 heifers in a neighboring field.

Superior Judge Mervin C. Lernhart decided in favor of Prince Domino and his owner, George Hardkian, owner of Omar Kay-yam's Restaurant in San Francisco in a $6,610 civil suit filed against them by Glen and Carleton Lynch of St. Helena.

The Lynchs' suit charged Prince Domino crashed the fence into the Lynch property and did there "wound, worry and impregnate" the heifers over a three-year period.

The suit characterized the Prince as a "bovine Don Juan" and a "wicket Lothario."

But Judge Lernhart ruled yesterday there was no evidence to prove just who had done the fence crashing—whether Prince Domino had invaded the heifers' field or visa versa.

For high school graduation exercises next week.

For John, 20, it was his 451st transfusion. His 19-year-old sister received her 401st.

The Ciccones were born with a rare blood disease known as Mediterranean anemia which hampers the production of red blood cells. The only known treatment for the disease is blood transfusion.

Grandmother, 62, To Get Degree

CLEVELAND (AP)—Mrs. Irene Thomas, a shy, 62-year-old grandmother who says "I'm a pretty old lady for this kind of thing," is going to get a college degree next Wednesday—after 42 years of off-and-on study.

She first registered at Western Reserve University in 1912 as a candidate for a one-year certificate in library work.

Accomplishing that, she started work in city libraries.

She returned to the university in 1920 and started taking courses to take her "mind off" troubles she says cropped up after leaving school.

In 1949 she had almost enough credits for a bachelor of arts degree and took a few required courses.

Now she is ready to graduate.

Graduates Get Blood Transfusions

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—John and Theresa Ciccone received blood transfusions yesterday to be ready for high school graduation exercises next week.

For John, 20, it was his 451st transfusion. His 19-year-old sister received her 401st.

The Ciccones were born with a rare blood disease known as Mediterranean anemia which hampers the production of red blood cells. The only known treatment for the disease is blood transfusion.

Bovine Don Juan Acquitted Of Heifer Misconduct

NAPA, Calif. (AP)—Prince Domino III, a blue-blooded bull, stood acquitted today of charges of willful misconduct in his affairs with 34 heifers in a neighboring field.

Superior Judge Mervin C. Lernhart decided in favor of Prince Domino and his owner, George Hardikian, owner of Omar Kay-yam's Restaurant in San Francisco in a $6,610 civil suit filed against them by Glen and Carleton Lynch of St. Helena.

The Lynchs' suit charged Prince Domino crashed the fence into the Lynch property and did there "wound, worry and impregnate" the heifers over a three-year period.

The suit characterized the Prince as a "bovine Don Juan" and a "wicket Lothario."

But Judge Lernhart ruled yesterday there was no evidence to prove just who had done the fence crashing—whether Prince Domino had invaded the heifers' field or visa versa.

Grandmother, 62, To Get Degree

CLEVELAND (AP)—Mrs. Irene Thomas, a shy, 62-year-old grandmother who says "I'm a pretty old lady for this kind of thing," is going to get a college degree next Wednesday—after 42 years of off-and-on study.

She first registered at Western Reserve University in 1912 as a candidate for a one-year certificate in library work.

Accomplishing that, she started work in city libraries.

She returned to the university in 1920 and started taking courses to take her "mind off" troubles she says cropped up after leaving school.

In 1949 she had almost enough credits for a bachelor of arts degree and took a few required courses.

Now she is ready to graduate.
